Europe Tense As League Crisis Nears

HOURS JUST AHEAD HOLD PEACE FATE

Negotiations Scheduled to Get Under Way This Afternoon

LONDON, March 18.—(UP)—Europe's high diplomats awaited the arrival of a German delegation today to start work on a program of peace consolidation which they hoped would remove the danger of a European war in favor of a period of security and friendship.

The situation precipitated by Germany's reoccupation of the Rhineland in defiance of the Versailles and Locarno treaties still was difficult and dangerous.

France, Great Britain, Belgium and Italy, comprising with Germany the signatories to the guarantee clauses of the Locarno treaty, still were far apart in their views as they met today, seeking agreement on a program.

France is angry because she believed Britain put compromise with Germany before complete support of France and Belgium.

Leaders said the next 48 hours would be fateful for all Europe—that negotiations today and tomorrow would tell whether there was to be a new, stronger system of security or increased instability.

Both France and Germany had made important concessions—France in its demand that Germany evacuate the Rhineland at once; Germany in its demand that Adolf Hitler's peace program must be the center of discussion.

Joachim von Ribbentrop, Hitler's roving ambassador and adviser on European politics, and a corps of assistants were due at Croydon flying field near London late today.

It had been hoped they would arrive in time for the league council meeting, and delegates made plans to delay the meeting so that Ribbentrop might speak. A two-hour delay in the Germans' departure from Berlin caused a change of program.

$1,500,000 ESTATE LEFT BY M'DIVANI

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—(UP)—Prince Serge M'Divani, killed on a Florida polo field last Sunday, left an estimated $1,500,000 estate to his widow, brother and two sisters, according to terms of his will recorded here today.

The will, drawn last Aug. 6 before his last marriage, bequeathed half of the estate to his young widow, Louise Astor Van Allen M'Divani, and the remainder to Prince David M'Divani and two sisters, Roussodana M'Divani Sert, wife of a Spanish artist, and Nina M'Divani Hubert, wife of a London barrister.

No mention was made of Serge's two former wives, Pola Negri and Mary McCormack.

First Robin Of Spring Staggers From Apple Tree

YAKIMA, Wash., March 18.—(UP)—Tis spring.

The robins have returned to Washington's Lush Yakima valley, the sap is flowing in the apple trees and so is the applejack.

J. R. Swanson, orchardist, became perplexed at the uncommonly queer antics of the red-breasted seasonal harbingers chirping among his apple trees, so he investigated. He watched robins fly into the trees, then flit erratically—hic-out again, only to return. In shriveled, faded apples, ruined for commercial purposes by last winter's rigorous cold, but still clinging to the trees, he found the answer. With the return of warm weather, their juice has undergone a chemical change. They are loaded with apple jack.

Roosevelt Asks For Billion And Half To Extend WPA Set-Up

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(UP)—President Roosevelt today asked congress to appropriate $1,500,000,000 to continue the Works Progress administration for another year.

TOWNSEND PLAN BACKERS RENEW CAPITOL DRIVE

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(UP)—A sudden spurt of Townsend plan activity was reported at the capitol today as the house prepared for its investigation of old age pension campaigns beginning March 26.

New attempts were made to place senators directly on record for the Townsend plan to pay $200 monthly pensions to persons of 60 or over. Letters and telegrams piled up in congressional offices.

"Remember your constituents are in...and not in Washington," said one letter.

"If you are for us, say so," said another. "If you are against us we will take care of you at the next election."

One senator said his Townsend letters virtually had ceased a month ago. Since then they have been arriving in increasing numbers. Senators and congressmen were impressed by the voting strength of the Townsends as they had come into contact with it during the recess. Since opening of the present session the legislators have not had the issue so forcibly impressed upon them.

The understanding in Washington has been that the house investigation of the Townsend plan was inspired largely by the hope it could be discredited before it became strong enough to crush those who have spoken out against it.

ACTOR DIES WITH PHOTOS OF STARS

HOLLYWOOD, March 18.—(UP)—Bob North, screen character actor, was found dead today at his home, his body surrounded by pictures of former motion picture stars. Police reported he had killed himself by inhaling gas.

Police were informed the actor, whose real name was Harold Young, had been out of work for months.

The row of pictures arranged around the room where his body was found included those of Mary Young, William S. Hart, and other former favorites and several current stars, including Warner Baxter.

MAN IS TORTURED, NAILED TO CROSS

OCALA, Fla., March 18.—(UP)—J. K. Tillerman, 45-year-old canal worker, was found nailed to a makeshift cross on the outskirts of Ocala today.

Tillerman was taken to a local hospital where he regained consciousness. He refused to make any statement concerning his attackers.

Tillerman, a worker on the Trans-Florida canal project, was nailed with 30-penny nails, hand and foot, to a crude wooden cross. His mouth was tightly sewed together. Questioned by Sheriff S. C. M. Thomas of Marion county, Tillerman would neither identify his torturers nor reveal their motive.

Youth Hunted As Woman's Stabber

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—(UP)—A youth, who stabbed a banking official's wife with an ice pick at bustling Wilshire boulevard and La Brea avenue, was hunted by police today on the basis of a meager description furnished by his victim. Mrs. William D. Baker, 34, was treated in Glendale sanitarium for a deep wound in the back.

FLOODS SURGE OVER VAST AREA IN EAST

Flood waters were sweeping through Central and Western Pennsylvania and parts of Maryland and West Virginia today, and the death toll in Johnstown, Pittsburgh and a score of lesser cities continued to mount. Thousands fled for their lives, as damage reached into millions. The scene below is typical of the worst devastation in the area since the disastrous Johnstown flood of 1889 when 2,300 persons were drowned. Here is shown a fisherman's shack on a Pennsylvania highway, tied to trees to prevent it from floating away.

RUDY TAKES IT ON CHIN FROM GEORGE WHITE

NEW YORK, March 18.—(UP)—Rudy Vallee, who would like to be known as a two-fisted crooner, was dejected today by cause they stopped "too soon" his fight with George White, the producer—stopped it in fact before Vallee could land a single punch after taking a few on the chin.

The battle took place last night on the stage of the New Amsterdam theater a few minutes after the curtains had been drawn on another performance of "Scandals." Fifty chorus girls, Bert Lahr, Willie and Eugene Howard and Graziella Barrie, principals, were among the spectators.

According to White the crooner called him a "terribly, ungentlemanly name" when he proposed to the cast that they agree to a six weeks shutdown so that "some costly contracts" could be voided without conflict with Actors Equity.

"I belted him on the face and

Water In Johnstown Higher Than In 1889

NEW YORK, March 18.—(UP)—Johnstown began a slow return toward normalcy today after the worst flood since the destructive inundation and dam-break of 1889, J. Williamson, plant wire chief there for the Bell Telephone company, indicated.

By afternoon, Williamson said in a national broadcasting company interview from the scene, the flood waters, which rose to second-story levels of Johnstown's buildings, will have receded back into the confines of the banks of Conemaugh river and Stony creek.

Automobile traffic, he added, was opened to within a quarter of a mile of the central business district. Red Cross emergency squads were expected momentarily he said.

Drinking water in the area must be boiled first, he said, adding "the people of Johnstown must have assistance from some source and must have it quick."

Williamson said he believed the inundation surpassed the flood of 1889.

"But the destruction and the loss of life was not near what it was at that time," he said. "All the people had plenty of time in the lowlands to move to higher ground."

"What is the food situation now?" he was asked.

"It is very bad. In fact, there is nothing that could be got in Johnstown."

Telephone workers have been supplied with food from Pittsburgh.

Williamson revealed two trains arrived today from Pittsburgh.

"Those trains did not carry anything but telephone equipment and state police and highway patrols," he said. "They were special trains made up at Pittsburgh to rush supplies to Johnstown."

"What is the temperature there this morning?"

"Approximately 40 degrees."

"You have heat?"

"We have no heat and we have no electric light."

"No power has been restored?"

"No."

"Is there much deposit of mud and silt in the town?"

"There is. On our stairway at the bottom, there were seven inches of mud."

COUPLE HELD FOR WEIRD DEATH TRY

SWEET HOME, Ore., March 18.—(UP)—Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Burgess, about 35, who said they lived in San Francisco, were in the Oregon state hospital for the insane today after weird suicide attempts which caused great excitement near Holy Lake Tuesday.

First disrobing, Burgess succeeded in wrecking his car completely but even though he was thrown through the windshield and Mrs. Burgess was pinned underneath the machine neither was more than scratched.

They explained to passing motorists that their religious beliefs demanded that they depart the world together and with none of their worldly possessions. They then calmly started walking down the road—entirely nude—until they were picked up by state troopers.

JURY STATE WHEEL

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 18.—(UP)—A jury went to the exposition yesterday, twirled a "flash wheel" used in games there which police had maintained were gambling, decided it involved skill and acquitted two men accused of operating gambling equipment.

JOHNSTOWN, PA., HARDEST HIT; WATER CONTINUES TO RAGE THROUGH 9 STATES

RAGING rivers today flooded Pittsburgh, Johnstown, Pa., and countless smaller cities throughout the east, causing millions of dollars worth of damage and taking uncounted lives. Deaths may mount to 40. Thousands of persons fled from their homes.

At midday the situation in the east's most disastrous floods in years was in brief:

PENNSYLVANIA
JOHNSTOWN—Flood waters reach depth of 17 feet in city in which 2,300 persons perished in historic flood of 1889. Accurate check on casualties in present flood still undetermined, but possibly may reach 20. Damage estimated at $1,000,000 or more. Gov. George H. Earle reports conditions "so alarming" that he is going to Johnstown to direct relief. State troopers and nurses dispatched from Harrisburg.
Pittsburgh—Water 17 feet deep in some parts of business section. Banks and big offices flooded. Giant industrial plants under water. Fires add to destruction. Damage runs into millions. Water highest in history. Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio railroads suspend all service into city. McKeesport—Much of city under water.
Wilkes-Barre—600 families evacuated as overflowing Susquehanna turns Wyoming Valley into lake.
New York
Binghamton—South side residential district cut off by highest water in the Susquehanna since 1865. All bridges closed. State police report conditions grave in entire southern section of New York state. Many highways covered with three feet or more of water.
Ithaca—City isolated as all communications fail.
Schenectady—Fifteen families marooned at Rotterdam Junction. Buffalo and Niagara Falls—Paralyzed by heaviest snow on record.
West Virginia

FIFTY BLOCKS UNDER WATER IN PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, March 18.—(UP)—Fifty blocks of Pittsburgh were inundated today by the Ohio river and its tributaries, the Monongahela and the Allegheny.

The most seriously affected district was the Golden Triangle, formed at the point where the Monongahela and Allegheny join to make the Ohio.

Water stood as deep as 18 feet in the triangle and damage there was estimated at least $10,000,000. Other estimates place possible damage as high as $100,000,000.

Ordinary business life was paralyzed. The stock exchange suspended service when the waters invaded its floors.

Theaters made no attempts to open.

Two dangerous fires were brought under control but firemen feared further blazes. Fire hydrants were under water, making fire-fighting almost impossible. Six persons were not accounted for after a fire at the Metzgar Boat works.

The river stage went a half-foot over the 43-foot mark at noon and was rising then at a rate of four to six inches an hour. The highest previous mark was 37 feet. Normally the stage is 18 and the flood stage 25.

The plants of the Pittsburgh Press and the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette were flooded and they moved to the Sun-Telegraph to put out their editions.

The weather bureau announced the flood would reach its crest late today. It estimated the river stage might reach 45 feet.

NAVY'S PERSONNEL WILL BE INCREASED

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(UP)—The navy department disclosed today it intends to have a personnel of 100,000 men in active service by the end of the fiscal year 1937, as compared with about 88,000 at present.

Acting Secretary of the Navy Rear Admiral Adolphus Andrews said the new war ships which will come into commission during the next 15 months will make this increase necessary.

Eighteen vessels including the aircraft carriers Yorktown and Enterprise, the heavy cruiser Vincennes, three light cruisers, the Brooklyn, Philadelphia, and Boise, three submarines and nine destroyers are scheduled to be launched during 1936. Other vessels will be floated during 1937.

Andrews said the navy is moving toward a goal of 35,000 men in service before the end of the 1936 fiscal year this coming June.

MEANS SOUGHT TO CUT PEACH SURPLUS

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.—(UP)—Headed by H. C. Merritt, Jr., director of the extensive Tagua ranch of Tulare, a California canning peach stabilization committee today sought means of moving a large 1935 surplus of canned peaches before the 1936 crop comes in.

Statisticians presented leaders of the industry at a meeting here indicated that as of January 1, 1936, there were 6,469,000 cases of canned peaches still to be marketed. A year before the unsold pack amounted to only 3,742,000 cases.

It will be the task of the new committee, announced here today, to find new and wider uses for the California peach crop so that the surplus can be reduced as soon as possible in order to avoid chaotic conditions in the 1936 market.

NATIONAL VETS' COMMANDER TO VISIT SANTA ANA ON TUESDAY

PREPARATIONS were completed today to entertain National Commander James E. Van Zandt and Department Commander R. F. Nichols, of California of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, at a big meeting of veterans to be staged in the K. of P. hall next Tuesday noon.

Plans for the event, which will mark the first official visit of the commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars to Santa Ana, were announced today by Glenn Hendrickson, commander of Ernest Kellogg post, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Special invitations to the mayor, civic officials, heads of service clubs, veteran organizations and other groups will be issued by Hendrickson for the Tuesday meeting. All veterans and friends have been invited to attend the event. Hendrickson requested that reservations be made with him by telephone 4438-W not later than Saturday.

Both Van Zandt and Nichols will speak at the luncheon meeting. They are scheduled to arrive in Santa Ana by automobile at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday. Van Zandt led the united forces of his nationwide organization through the last two years of a battle for immediate cash payment of adjusted service certificates, according to Hendrickson, which was authorized by the 1935 congress.

Commander-in-Chief Van Zandt, of Altoona, Pa., now is serving his third successive term as leader of the V. F. W. He is recognized as abled veteran and his dependents in whose behalf V. F. W. is seeking a uniform pension system as one of its major legislative programs.

Since his first election to office in September of 1923 he has traveled an annual average of more than 200,000 miles in the interest of the V. F. W. threefold program of veteran care and rehabilitation, child welfare and Americanism. A gifted and experienced speaker of unusual magnetism, Van Zandt has addressed thousands of public mass meetings, state legislatures and other assemblies in the course of tours.

He will speak here on the 1936 program formulated by the thirty-sixth annual national encampment of his organization at New Orleans. The V. F. W. program, according to Hendrickson, stresses the adoption of a permanent neutrality policy. Three additional points of the program are measures designed to further the movement toward ultimate world peace, Hendrickson said. They include federal control or regulation of the manufacture and sale of munitions, an adequate national defense to insure the safety of America's shores, and the conscription of capital and industry on an equal basis with man-power in the event of war.

Another point of general public interest in the V. F. W. program that has to do with the welfare of the country as a whole, is a demand for the prosecution or deportation of aliens and other individuals who seek the overthrow of the government by force or violence. It was declared.

Because of the limited amount of space available, the meeting here Tuesday noon will be limited to an attendance of 200 persons, Hendrickson said.

DEATH PENALTY IN GLAB CASE SOUGHT

LOS ANGELES, March 18. — (UP)—Deputy District Attorney Pat McCormick indicated in a closing argument to the jury today that the state would ask the death penalty for Mrs. Hazel Glab on trial charged with murdering her third husband.

McCormick referred to the testimony of a state's witness as "straightforward and without prejudice and such as would not have been given in an offense which might result in the loss of the defendant's life, without the most careful consideration."

SET TRIAL DATE
Trial of the case against Chandler Thompson, Santa Ana charged with non-support of minor children, was set for April 14 at 9 a. m. when he appeared before Justice Kenneth Morrison today.

KEN Murray SAYS:

The figures submitted to the house, listing the campaign contributions of the various political parties, show that the gifts were unusually small, with the exception of those to the Republicans. Of course, calling those campaign donations, "gifts," sounds about as convincing as those pinball machines advertising, "a game of skill."

Despite the fact that their contributions are smaller, the Democrats are spending much more than the G.O.P. . . . Must be pure absent-mindedness . . . They probably thought it was federal funds.

And with the du Ponts contributing heavily to the Republican campaign, it must be surprising if the G. O. P. offers its presidential candidate wrapped in cellophane.

It isn't known whether the Communist party reported any contributions, but it makes no difference, as they have little use for money, anyway . . . They do their most effective campaigning with slugs.

HOLD PAIR FOR GRAND THEFT IN LAND SWINDLE

Accused of practicing the "bunko" game on elderly Orange county residents, generally women, by trading off their properties without consent or knowledge, Guy C. Clawson, 42, and Ray Larson, 32, both of Los Angeles, were returned to Orange county jail yesterday by Deputy Sheriff James Ragan and Elmer Gates to face grand theft charges.

According to Deputy District Attorney J. Eugene Walker, who will prosecute the men, they operated here in February, collecting "expense money" from their asserted victims, "to handle preliminary escrow matters" relative to sale of the Orange county properties to prospective buyers. Afterward, the Orange county residents discovered they had signed deeds for trading of their own property for property located at Twenty-Nine Palms.

"They told me they were selling my property for me at a five percent commission," one elderly woman told Walker. "Now I find they have traded my property out from under me and I'm supposed to buy property I've never seen, in Twenty-Nine Palms."

The men assertedly first collected $10 or $15 for preliminary expenses and later returned to ask for as much as $65 to $80 more.

At arraignment before Justice Kenneth Morrison yesterday, bail was set at $2500 each and the men were ordered to appear for preliminary hearing March 25, at 9 a. m.

BILLION AND HALF ASKED TO CONTINUE WPA

straight WPA appropriation of $2,000,000,000.

"I am, however, not asking this congress to appropriate $2,000,000,000," he said.

"I am asking only for an appropriation of $1,500,000,000 to the Works Progress administration. It will be their responsibility to provide work for the destitute unemployed."

The president made it clear that the whole of the appropriation should go to the Works Progress administration that makes jobs at a yearly average of $650 a year per man, including "security" wages, and cost of project materials.

Mr. Roosevelt's message clearly ended possibility of new non-federal public works, for which he allotted $280,000,000 under the current $4,880,000,000 program.

The New Deal, through its 1936-1937 plans, also abandoned unemployment and low-rent housing as a work-relief activity. At present, the Public Works administration is constructing 48 housing projects with $120,000,000.

The president's recommendation for WPA came when the agency, directed by Harry L. Hopkins, was under heavy fire of criticism for alleged partisan politics. Only today, Hopkins issued a general letter to all state WPA directors banning political activity on all his projects.

The special message was in effect a result for a $1,500,000,000 "blank check" to be spent as Mr. Roosevelt directs through WPA.

Such a form of spending was successfully attacked in both the senate and house when congress divided not to appropriate regular government money to continue the Florida ship canal after it had been started with work relief funds.

In asking the sum of $1,500,000,000 for WPA, Mr. Roosevelt made clear that he believed private industry would have to give jobs to considerable numbers of the idle if the cost was to be held within this limit.

He indicated some doubt as to whether industry would be able to accomplish this aim without a broad national effort.

"Frankly," he said, "there is little evidence that large and small employers by individual and uncoordinated action can absorb large numbers of new employees. A vigorous effort on a national scale is necessary by voluntary, concerted action of private industry."

He pointed to the success of the NIRA in encouraging re-employment and cited difficulties of achieving any similar success under present conditions.

SWIMMING POOL DEATH NOT DUE TO DROWNING

Thirteen-year-old Loraine Williams whose body was found in the bottom of the Y. M. C. A. swimming pool Monday night, following a swimming party of which he was a member, died of natural causes and was not a drowning victim, a coroner's jury decided today at McAulay and Suters funeral chapel, Fullerton, this morning.

Young Williams, member of the Pioneer group of the Methodist church of Yorba Linda, where he lived, was victim of a glandular ailment which is associated with disturbances of the heart's activity, according to the finding. According to Deputy Coroner Bert Casteix, no one was held to blame in connection with the boy's death. It was reported, after an autopsy yesterday, that no water was found in Williams' lungs, water being present only in case of drowning.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Williams of Yorba Linda, had joined the swimming party with 13 other church members, Monday evening about 8 o'clock. When the party adjourned an hour later, his body was discovered. The inquest jury of Santa Ana worked fruitlessly for an hour, in an effort to restore life.

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m., in the First Methodist church, Yorba Linda.

JAIL ORANGE MAN ON MORALS COUNT

Captured on the grounds of St. Joseph hospital in Orange by Orange officers who have been staked out on a "man hunt" for several weeks, Herman F. Schroeder, 26, of 616 West Chapman avenue, Orange, was arrested late last night and jailed on a charge of indecent exposure.

Schroeder was arrested when he assertedly tried to attract the attention of a hospital nurse, walking in the vicinity. Pleading guilty this morning when arraigned before Justice A. W. Swayze, Orange, Schroeder was ordered to appear tomorrow in the same court for sentence.

Officers, both in Orange and Santa Ana, for several weeks have been seeking a man accused by a Santa Ana woman and women of Orange of being indecently exposed in their presence and of leaving printed obscene notes for them.

SWALLOWS EXPECTED TO BE BACK AT SAN JUAN MISSION THURSDAY; BROADCAST RETURN

By MARAH ADAMS

Swallows winging their way from winter retreats lying further south, to arrive it is expected, at the San Juan Capistrano mission tomorrow, may well be surprised at the extensive preparations which have been made for their reception. Broadcasts were made this morning over KFI by Father Arthur J. Hutchison, mission pastor who told of the history and romance of the mission and music was broadcast by students from the parish school.

For many years the swallows have arrived at the mission of St. Joseph's day, March 19, and the news of their coming is now of national interest. Moving pictures for news reels will be taken as they fly toward the old mission walls which have provided homes for them and their ancestors for so long a time.

A few of the vanguard of birds arrived yesterday and today at the mission and it is expected that the rest will arrive on schedule, for last year plays no part in throwing the swallows off the appointed time.

This morning the flight of the swallows on many previous occasions was described by Ramon Yorba, mission retainer, whose birthday falls on March 19. He will reach the age of 77 tomorrow and he has been at the mission since a small boy. Little Ida Jimenez, who will be eight years old tomorrow, told of the times she has seen the swallows return.

A national broadcast will be made tomorrow from the mission gardens at 9:15 a. m. and again on Friday if for any reason, the birds should be late.

Residents living in the vicinity of the Santiago dam also are watching for some of the swallows, some of which fly inland each year on March 19 and make their homes in the cliffs near the dam.

A resident of Santa Ana, G. W. Elliott, French street, has built a 14-compartment bird house on a pepper tree in his yard, because for a number of years some of the swallows coming inland on March 19 have seemed anxious to find places for nests. He is hoping that any overflow of birds not finding adequate lodgings at the mission, will seek homes in his pepper tree.

Some spectators said the producer, a former tap dancer, got in five punches before stage hands stopped him. Then he left the arena shouting to Vallee, "You know where to find me if you want to fight some more."

Vallee went to Newark, N. J., to spend the night. Hyman Bushel, the attorney who guided him through his recent marital troubles, promptly took up the cudgels.

"Rudy would have killed him if they hadn't stopped the fight," he said. "George White is a Maxie Baer. He has had too much night life and it is a good thing for him that they parted them. If Rudy had got a few blows in White would be dead now. The whole thing is just a cheap publicity stunt, Rudy told me he didn't remember what he called him but whatever it was it wasn't strong enough. He said that White was outraged and said 'What do you mean using such language in front of all these girls.'"

He said Vallee planned to appear at the matinee today and "live up to his contract." White indicated that unless Equity permitted him to take the crooner out of the show he would close the production Saturday "much as I dislike to throw about 200 people out of work."

The chief said he contacted State Police Superintendent Adams with a request that all available state police, CCC workers and state motor patrolmen be sent to Johnstown to relieve the local police and fire forces which have been on duty 24 hours.

Every town on the western slope of the Allegheny reported conditions similar to Johnstown's but not as severe.

Chaplin, Paulette Now In Singapore

SINGAPORE, Straits Settlement, March 18.—(UP)—Charles Chaplin, film pantomimist, and Paulette Goddard, his leading lady who reportedly is to become his third wife, registered separately today at the Adelphi hotel five hours after their arrival from Hongkong.

While the couple sought seclusion immediately after their arrival, it was believed because of the manner in which they registered they had not married during the five-hour interval.

Chaplin registered first. Then Miss Goddard and her mother, accompanying the couple on a world tour, signed the register and were assigned quarters in the hotel.

FATHERS, SONS TO MEET AT "Y" ON THURSDAY

Fathers and sons as partners in the choice of work will be the theme of the monthly father and son dinner at the Y. M. C. A. on Thursday evening. This event is open not only to boys who are members of the Y. M. C. A. but to boys of the community in general, so long as they are accompanied by their fathers.

The program, as announced by Secretary Herbert R. Thomas, starts with the dinner at 6:15, and advance reservations for this dinner must be made this evening. A phone call to the Y. M. C. A. is sufficient.

Music for the program is to be provided by the Federal Hawaiian group of players.

Prof. J. Gustav White, of Whittier college, nationally known as an advisor of youth in matters of vocational choice, is to be the speaker of the evening. His subject is announced as "Partners in Choosing a Life Work," and it is expected that he will give some very definite and helpful suggestions to both boys and men.

Glenn Layton, a member of the volunteer leaders' group of the Y. M. C. A. and a student in the high school will speak briefly on "Youth in Search of a Job."

Following the speeches, a "father's forum" will be discussed, and an opportunity will be given for questions and discussion with Professor White.

Secretary Thomas stressed the fact that the dinner price of "two for the price of one" plan is being followed for this occasion, and that all boys and fathers interested in getting their plans made for life are urged to attend. He stated that older boys will find the talks of exceptional value.

Six persons were painfully injured, two of them seriously, about 2 a. m. today in an automobile accident on Lincoln road a half mile west of Euclid avenue, according to brief reports filed with the sheriff's office this morning.

Eighteen-year-old Jeanette Rogers, 335 West Chapman, Fullerton, was in Cottage hospital, Fullerton, in dangerous condition, suffering from possible internal injuries and badly cut face, while Alta Moore Bachman, 22, of Placentia, was at Orange county hospital with possible skull fracture, concussion and severe scalp lacerations.

Following an accident yesterday afternoon on A street, Tustin, Alfred F. Milbrat, 39, Silver drive, Garden Grove, driver of one car, was jailed for drunk driving. His car collided with one operated by Louise A. Wilson, 31, of 1709 East First street, Santa Ana, according to state highway patrol officers.

The Wilson car was stopped at the time of the collision, according to officers, and Milbrat allegedly was driving on the wrong side of the thoroughfare. He was arrested by Chief John Stanton of Tustin.

TURF AGENCY IN ANAHEIM IS STILL CLOSED

"Wire trouble" continued to hold up operations at the Anaheim office of the Continental Turf agency today, Manager W. E. Scooby announcing that it was hoped to resume acceptance of commissions tomorrow.

The agency ceased accepting commissions and refunded all money handled a short time before the start of the first race at Tanforan yesterday afternoon. Several Santa Ana residents who had a hot tip on Mad Joss in the first race were ready to jump off the nearest bridge when Mad Joss came in first and paid off at the rate of $153.60 for win tickets.

The agency denied today that police had warned them to cease operations, declaring that wire difficulty was the only reason they ceased accepting commissions.

TESTIMONY IS SUBMITTED IN HOMICIDE CASE

Testimony that Harold Ahern, of Universal City, on trial for alleged negligent homicide, was driving his car on the wrong side of the highway, without lights, and with the odor of alcohol on his breath, at the time Mrs. Ella J. Ahern, of San Marino, was killed in a traffic crash at Corona Del Mar, was given today before Superior Judge G. K. Seovel.

Mrs. Elizabeth Atchison Donlon, of Arcadia, niece of the crash victim, testified that Ahern was on the left-hand side of the Coast highway, near Dahlia street, at Corona Del Mar, when his car struck the machine driven by her father, John D. Atchison, of San Marino, last January 13. She also testified that the lights of Ahern's car were not burning.

H. I. Williams, of Corona Del Mar, who pulled Ahern's senseless form from his burning car after the crash, said that one wheel of the Ahern car was across the center line of the highway. He did not notice, he said, whether the odor of liquor was on Ahern's breath.

Dr. J. M. Burlew, of Santa Ana, who treated Ahern for his injuries, testified that he observed the odor of liquor on the patient's breath.

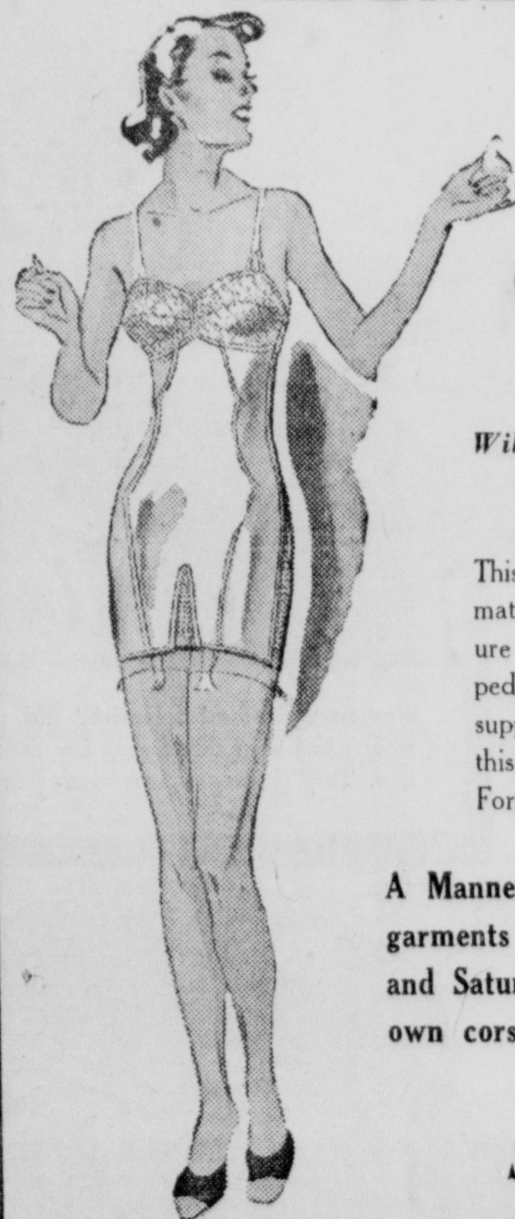

Deputy District Attorney Harold McCabe and J. Eugene Walker were conducting the prosecution of the Ahern case, with Attorney H. N. Dial appearing for the defense.

TWENTY-THIRTY CLUB BOYS GO TO WHITTIER

More than 30 members of the Santa Ana Twenty-Thirty club journeyed to Whittier last night to attend a special meeting staged by the Whittier club and to hear Gertrude Steele, the American girl who was in prison in Nazi Germany for six months suspected of being a spy, tell her interesting and colorful story.

The reason Miss Steele was placed under suspicion, she told her listeners last night, was because she was a good friend of a noted Polish spy who gave her parties at which ambassadors and officials of various countries were guests.

Her contact and friendship with the Polish spy was brought about through her newspaper work, she said, as she was correspondent for two American papers. Both she and her sister were arrested by Nazi officers, but the German government forbade both the marriages because Gertrude Steele was being watched by the German Secret Service.

While she was under surveillance, Miss Steele was engaged by the publisher of the largest German mediating picture concern to write a scenario involving a spy plot. For this work she was to be paid $5,000, she said. In writing this story, she involved a high German official, not using his name, describing him as a brusque, ruddy-faced brute of a man, and he immediately recognized himself when going over the copy. The work she did on the scenario made German officials think she was in on the spy system, she said, particularly due to the fact that she mentioned the names of two women who were beheaded who were also friends of hers.

By demanding rights of international law, she was able to see the American consul after she was in prison for three days, but he gave her little hope for a quick release. She remained in prison without contact with the outside world for six months.

She told of having talked to one of the women who was beheaded shortly after the woman's trial, and the woman told her she had been sentenced to 20 years in prison and that evidently Hitler had rescinded the decision after the verdict.

Miss Steele said that there is no question but that Hitler will remain in power as long as the Army is in

MORE WILD ANIMAL DISPLAYS ADDED TO BIG BARNES CIRCUS

BERT NELSON AND SAMPSON, A MAN KILLER

Thrilled! We've just gotta have 'em. They're necessary for humanity. Pops up a slough circulatory system, breaks the monotony of life, provides a vital tonic which brings the glow and sparkle to the cheeks and eyes. That's what the people say. So are the sentiments of Bert Nelson, recognized as the greatest wild animal trainer of all time, who will appear in Santa Ana, Monday, March 20, when the A. G. Barnes circus comes for two performances at 2 and 8 p. m.

"Giving the wild-eyed populace a thrill in these hectic days is merely a matter of courting death," continues Nelson. "Tazardous stunts of other years get the thumbs down from the present generation and command little or no attention."

"Excitement-craving crowds rush nervously here and there throughout the world seeking a hoped-for thrill by witnessing some daredevil, death-defying man or woman attempt the seemingly impossible, accomplish some perilous feat that has never been done before." Twice each day Bert Nelson battles 40 newly recruited jungle bred lions and tigers in the heavily girted steel arena of the A. G. Barnes circus. He has had a hundred narrow escapes. His body is tattooed with the marks of the beasts, each a faint reminder of a battle with a man-eating beast. Bert Nelson has seen many trainers come and go in his time. He has appeared with his "pets" as he calls them, in all the capitals of Continental Europe as well as in the principal cities of North America.

There are hundreds of performing animals with the A. G. Barnes circus this season. All champion trainers of Europe and America will be seen along with more than 400 arena male and female artists.

There are 1,000 people altogether with the big show. Three special trains are used to transport the circus from city to city; 22 tents house the migratory aggregation. They cover more than 12 acres of ground. It is one of the world's largest amusement organizations.

an $8 fine, when they pleaded guilty yesterday before City Judge J. G.

Mitchell, E. McGarvin and W. L.

Morrison paid $1 each for use of

J. B. Little, 610 East Fourth street, reported to city police late yesterday that a man and woman who gave the names of Mr. and Mrs. W. Van Dorn and said they were connected with the carnival

now showing here, rented a room

from him and when they left he missed a blanket. He asked police to search for the couple.

To forestall a tragedy similar to the one several weeks ago at Seal beach in which a youth was smothered to death in a cave-in while at play, city police yesterday went to the 500-block on Flower street, to explain the danger to six boys who were reported digging in a vacant

lot there. Sergeant W. E. B. Sherwood contacted the boys and explained the danger. They agreed with him and left the location.

Runaway boys, 16 and 17 years old, from Downey, were safe at home today in custody of their parents, following their apprehension along East First street at 4:45 a.

m. by Patrol Officers C. V. Adams

and Ralph Pantuso. The boys, coincidentally, said they were en route to Santa Ana and escorted them home.

city police his "Roll Fast" bicycle was stolen last night while it was parked at the carnival grounds at Fourth and Garfield.

WOMAN, REFUGEE IN 1889, IS AGAIN FLEEING FLOOD WATERS

Editor's Note: Mrs. Frank Shaffer was driven from her home as a girl of eight by the 1889 Johnstown flood in which 2,300 persons drowned. Another flood made her a refugee again today. Although 56, she was making coffee and serving doughnuts to other unfortunates in a police station when a United Press staff correspondent got this story from her.

By MRS. FRANK SHAFFER

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., March 18.—

(UP)—I was eight years old at the time of the big Johnstown flood, but I remember it plain. My father, my mother, my sister, the pup and I lived in the attic from Friday to Sunday night.

If the dams break this would be a whole lot worse.

I remember it was Memorial day when the 1889 flood hit us.

It rained all day and night before. There was a celebration going on in town.

Backwaters around two and three feet deep began flooding the business section around 2 p. m.

When we got word the dam had broken (the South Fork dam, 10 miles east of Johnstown) we knew it was bad, but nobody dreamed how bad.

Within 10 minutes after we heard about the dam the water

rose from two or three feet deep to about 17 or 18 feet.

We ran to the attic of our home and stayed there 48 hours or more. It was from Friday afternoon to Sunday night. I wasn't afraid because the folks made it seem like a picnic to me. I guess

my father and mother were,

though.

We saw any number of people go by floating on debris, roofs of houses and other objects. We picked up 11 bodies right in our yard when we got out. We saw people drown—more than I care to remember.

The city was in an uproar for months. State militia were here for weeks. We all ate at state commissaries set up in every section. No matter how much money you had, you couldn't buy anything.

Sure, I'm scared now. I guess I came up here to make coffee with the other ladies because I needed some company. If the dams break it would be just too bad for Johnstown, Pittsburgh or any other place in the way.

The Quemanohoning, the North Fork and the Mill Creek dams up above us are the biggest in the state. The Quemanohoning is seven miles long.

You should be scared yourself, young man.

PETITIONS TO BE CIRCULATED FOR WILLIAMS

Circulation of petitions for an "unpledged" delegation to the Republican convention is expected to be started "almost immediately," according to word received here today, Judge R. Y. Williams, Republican wheel horse in Orange county, and Isaac Jones of Ontario, are the candidates listed from the Nineteenth Congressional district.

Announcing the "unpledged" slate, H. L. Carnahan, former Lieutenant governor, said that circulation of the petitions marks the end of "six weeks of conferences held in Los Angeles and San Francisco in an earnest effort to compose differences in the party and present a united front against New Deal policies of the Democratic administration."

Nominally the delegation will be pledged to Earl Warren, chairman of the Republican State Central committee, as California law requires that a delegation be listed in the name of some candidate, Carnahan said. Actually, however, the delegates will be released to "serve as an unpledged unit" to facilitate work of the national convention and serve the best interests of the party.

Carnahan said that in spite of the six weeks of conferences resulting in selection of the unpledged slate, "personal ambition has triumphed in the case of a small number of individuals, some of whom are not Republicans or even registered citizens of California."

The Warren slate was the second announced by Republican factions. A group headed by Gov. Frank Merriam is working for a delegation backing Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas for the Republican nomination. State Senator Nelson T. Edwards is named as a candidate on this ticket from the Nineteenth Congressional district. No slate has been named for Sen. William E. Borah, whose campaign managers recently approved selection of delegates in his name to run in the California primary.

Takes Rhine Under Its Wing Again

Dwarfing the men who look up to it as a symbol of the unconquerable military spirit of the nation, the bold German eagle has brought the Rhineland under the domination of its steel talons and the powerful wings of its combat planes through the re-militarization of the neutral zone established under the Locarno treaty.

19TH DISTRICT DEMOCRATS TO UNITE FORCES IN MOVE TO ELECT NEW CONGRESSMAN

Robert Ramsey, member of the Orange County Democratic Central committee is selecting a committee that will unite forces in the Nineteenth Congressional District 1936 campaign to elect a congressman.

Ramsey, who will head this committee said last night that H. C. Head, prominent Santa Ana Democrat and Stanley Clem, president of the Young Democrats of Orange county, have been appointed to serve and Hamilton H. Cotton and Judge H. G. Ames, also have consented to be members of the group which will comprise seven members. Ramsey said that he will ask County Assessor James Sleeper also to serve on the committee.

The committee of seven is the outcome of a recent conference between party leaders from Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties, over the congressional race. The conference was held here for the purpose of consolidating all Democratic forces behind one candidate.

The delegations from Riverside and San Bernardino counties declared that they will not enter a candidate if Orange county will agree to enter but one contender. They suggested that a committee of seven Orange county Democrats be named to select the candidate. At present the choice apparently centers between Ray Adkinson, county superintendent of schools, who has already announced his candidacy, and Assistant District Attorney James Davis, who was a candidate two years ago. Davis has not announced his candidacy and neither has he said that he would not be a candidate.

C. of C. to Name Leader April 14

WESTMINSTER, March 18. — Westminster Chapter of commerce members will elect a new president at the meeting scheduled for April 14 following the resignation of Ned Clinton, at a meeting held this week. Clinton's resignation followed claims by a group of new members headed by E. J. Menard that Clinton, a rancher living near Westminster, did not represent people of the community.

With 12 regular members of the chapter in attendance, some 28 new members joined the organization at the meeting.

A committee consisting of Ed Finley, Roy Love and J. F. Thompson was appointed as a nominating committee.

While Dr. Russell Johnson, vice president of the chapter, said today that efforts would be made to persuade Clinton to reconsider his decision, Clinton said that he did not intend to stay in office after the next meeting.

LIBERTY BELL DAYS PLANNED BY MERCHANTS

Tentative plans for staging a merchandising event to be known as Liberty Bell Days in Santa Ana were announced today by Clyde Hill, of the Hill and Hill Insurance agency, who is acting as secretary-manager of the Santa Ana Home Owned Business association.

Hill said the plan is to give customers of the Home Owned stores Liberty Bell stamps, one for each 10 cent purchase. When the customer gets 30 of these stamps, he affixes them to a card and drops the card in a ballot box at a Home Owned store.

Various large prizes will be given away, Hill said, including radios and refrigerators. It is planned to stage the event within the next few weeks.

Hill, accompanied by Walter Vandermast, J. H. Bell and Ed Pagenkopp, took a trip to Pomona recently and investigated the plan where it is working successfully, it was said.

— News Behind the News —

BORAH
CLEVELAND, O., March 18.—Senator Borah's game is to build himself up in the public mind as the people's choice. His opportunity of doing it is limited practically to two states, Illinois and Ohio. He will tie in others, but these are the two big ones, for him. Unless he can make a popular showing in these two central primaries, he is through as a major force. Insiders of both camps believe that.

A personal survey among men who know their politics in those states indicates that his chances right now are rather discouraging.

CHANCES

Chicago Republican authorities in Ohio are privately guessing his maximum possibilities at less than half the Illinois delegation. Their estimates run down to a minimum expectation of scattering support. The Ohio situation has not been canvassed because the primary is a month later, May 12. But here also, few will even give him half as many votes as he has in Illinois. Most authorities rate him down to a minimum of a half a dozen or so.

While these are merely inconclusive expert guesses, they afford a valuable hint that all is not well with the Borah candidacy.

REGRETS

Clever Republican strategists know all this. They figure Borah already stopped. But even so they are unhappy. The wisest of them fear the aftermath of a warm Borah personality scrap. They wonder how large the wounds will be, and whether these can be healed by election time.

Nothing that Borah has said or threatened up to now is considered dangerous to party harmony. But the stump campaign in both states is just beginning.

Word has been coming from trustworthy Washington sources that his coming speeches will be dignified. Unless someone else starts getting unnecessarily rough, he will not, it is said. This has only half-assured the apprehensions.

SHY

Fear of a rough-house has caused a good many of the Republicans who like Borah more than the other candidates to shy away from him. One Ohio leader manifested Borah leanings some weeks ago, but since has remained silent. Thus Mr. Borah, seems to be caught in a crack.

POLLS

Good political judges out this way do not put too much faith in the many polls you see now-a-days. Not that they doubt the sincerity of the pollsters. They merely believe that such evidence is inconclusive this year of all others.

For one thing, the votes which the Kelly-Nash organization will bring out on election day have certainly not been polled accurately by any of the pollsters now in the field. Opponents of the Kelly-Nash machine call it "the lodging house" vote. They refer to the large registration of voters from downtown rooming houses.

For another thing, even the Literary Digest has never been faced with a close election. In each of its presidential polls since 1920, it called the turn on land-slides, the results of which were obvious to political observers weeks in advance. They were not hard to call.

This election may be closer.

WASHINGTON

By Ray Tucker

STRIPPED

Keen ears have heard some sharp scuffling behind G.O.P. doors over John D. Hamilton's future party status. It may throw the national organization for a loss even before the political whistle blows unless settled soon.

Although Mr. Hamilton resigned as executive aide to promote Gov. Alf Landon's presidential stock, he insists on hugging his post as general counsel to the national committee. But he was promised $25,000 a year to forsake private law practice for politics and he draws down that sum as the party's lawyer. The money, however, was guaranteed by certain Chicago knottiesmen close to candidate Frank Knox.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

INCANTATION AND INVENTION

The march of civilization has been man's progress out of incantation into invention.

In the dim dawn of the human adventure, when man faced difficulty or dilemma, he sang rhythmic chants and rhythmically thumped his drums to catch the ear of his gods and induce them to intervene in his behalf.

He sought to control both his natural and his social environments by incantation.

As the centuries sped on man developed his intelligence. He prayed less and pondered more.

In time a flood called him not to incantation before the rain god but to invention that flood control devices might be installed.

The engineer succeeded the primitive priest.

It will not do for us to jump to the conclusion that because of the staggering advance of invention we are out of the age of incantation.

The medicine man still does a thriving business in our midst. We may not appeal to the old

Now that the young red-head is openly boosting Mr. Landon, the underwriters refuse to pay up. Chairman Fletcher hopes to settle the squabble before it becomes too acrimonious. Meanwhile, he has stripped Mr. Hamilton of all legal authority. Gov. Landon's rivals complain that legal questions arising prior to the convention should be passed on by a more impartial master-mind.

STRATEGY

Foxy Jim Farley is promoting certain Republican presidential candidates almost as zealously as he ballyhooes the virtues of his well-beloved Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Mr. Farley has quietly spread the word that Democratic orators should "lay off" Alf Landon of Kansas.

He has instructed publicists Michelson and Roddian to withhold their fire against the Kansas governor until they see the presidential white in his eyes. Mr. Farley regards the "Coolidge from Kansas" as the easiest man for Mr. Roosevelt to defeat. Hence why Jim will place no preliminary hurdles in the the Kansas path toward the nomination.

A companion piece of Democratic strategy calls for refraining from criticism of William Edgar Borah. The Farleyites figure that if Mr. Borah can capture several key states—Ohio, Illinois, Pennsylvania—and then suffer a repulse at Cleveland, it will antagonize every Republican liberal and make C. G. O. defeat inevitable. So the Democrats' subtle game is to boost Borah but nominate Landon. It's a new twist in national politics.

DICKINSON

Anti-New Deal lawyers usually exit from a Supreme court session with smiles on their faces over the inadequacy of their legal opponents. Up to now this feeling of superiority has amounted to half the battle. But John Dickinson's defense of the legality of the Guffey act swept away this old-time cockiness.

Mr. Dickinson, ordinarily pompous and pontifical, amazed even his well-wishers. He was asked only one question, although the justices usually floor government counsel with a barrage of disconcerting queries. Justices Brandeis and Cardozo exchanged smiles as the lawyer advanced arguments which might have won a decision for the NRA had he handled that case.

Lawyers doubt that the court will validate the Guffey act. But Mr. Dickinson politely put the justices on the spot. Agreeing with their decision in the "sick chicken" case, he argued that federal control of mining and distribution of coal was an altogether different matter. He reminded the court that had upheld federal regulation of similar enterprises in the past. Thus he gave the court an "out" if it chooses to take a walk. He delivered the finest exposition of FDR's philosophy that has been heard since the New Deal came to town.

DESTRUCTION

Although the Hearst-Strawn fire over the Black Committee's seizure of telegrams commands hideous headlines, astute Democratic tacticians regard it as only a preliminary shelling of the administration's political trenches.

Two Honored At La Habra Party

LA HABRA, March 18.—Two shared honors at a surprise birthday party given recently at the home of Mrs. U. R. Phillips on South College street. Mrs. Ward has been visiting here from Escondido, Mrs. Shiels and Rosalie Phillips were the hostesses.

After the games which entertained the guests during the afternoon, the two birthday cakes were served at a table appointed in the St. Patrick's motif.

Guests were Everett Church, Kitty Kuhn, Evelyn Pattison, Laurence Landon, and Corinne Laundrie, Beverly and Marlin Lou La Monte, Helen Ward, Irene Davis, Billy and Russell Ward and Mrs. U. R. Phillips.

KIN OF SANTA ANA MAN PENS BOOK ON LIFE

The value of music, as an aid to finding genuine joy and usefulness in life, is emphasized in more than one chapter of "Methods of Private Religious Living," a book by Henry Nelson Wieman of Chicago, brother of William W. Wieman of Santa Ana.

"The important thing is to have an unattained ideal of beauty to which to strive," holds this professor of religious philosophy at the University of Chicago. "Even the greatest artist never attains his ideal."

In a portion of the book devoted specifically to "How to Enjoy the World," Prof. Wieman declares, "our happiness might be many times greater than it is if we had the mental attitudes which enable one to appreciate to the full all the good things round about."

Idea Challenge

The author's brother considers that idea both a challenge and a helpful hint to Orange county civic and educational enterprises. Principal of the Lathrop Evening High school, he has many opportunities to see that idea in constructive trend among citizens taking advantage of opportunities being offered in adult education especially.

Besides, William W. Wieman has a deep interest in the activities of Orange county's share of the Federal Music project, both musicians and audiences can help to enrich their own lives through practical appreciation of this project's proven and potential influence on behalf of true beauty, he believes.

USWW ACCEPT INVITATION TO VFW CONCLAVE

Calumet camp, United Spanish War Veterans, held a regular meeting last night with 24 per cent of its membership in attendance and visitors from Los Angeles, Long Beach and Oceanside. Two former members renewed their affiliation and two applicants for membership were duly elected to become members.

Comrade Eugene U. Briggs, of Corona del Mar, and Comrade Walter A. Proctor, of Santa Ana, renewed their memberships in a camp while Peter Erwin, a member of Westport camp, No. 8, now residing at 1026 West Highland avenue, applied for membership by transfer and William W. Mosley, route 3, box 71, Santa Ana, applied as a new member and they were both elected to become members.

Comrade Edward E. Patmor reported that he had taken Comrade Oscar Kurtz, who has been ill for some time, to the National Military home hospital at Savelle.

Among the many communications was one from Commander Glenn Hendrickson of Ernest L. Kellogg post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, inviting the camp members to attend a noonday luncheon at the Knights of Pythias hall on March 24, given in honor of Commander-in-Chief James E. Van Zandt, who will stop over here that day while on his way to San Diego and give the ex-service men of this vicinity a message.

Commander Van Zandt was one of the national leaders that put up such a valiant fight for the restoration of the pensions of Spanish war veterans that was taken away from them by the so-called economy act.

Comrades R. Stephens, Walter Lynch, A. M. Florida and W. L. Granger, of Long Beach camp, No. 24; Comrade William J. Winders, of Los Angeles camp, No. 26, and Henry A. Mueller, of Santa Ana camp, No. 2, Pocotello, Idaho, were among the visitors present who spoke on questions of Americanism, patriotism, immigration, deportation of aliens and recruiting.

Comrade George E. Hubbard, Quartermaster William Brown and Past Commanders Al H. Hall and Charles W. Kincaid, the latter from Oceanside, also spoke briefly. Frank P. Rowe, secretary of the Citrus Belt U. S. W. V. club, announced that the first picnic of the year, by the club, was to be held at Brookside park, Pasadena, on April 12.

Commander James A. Randel announced that in accordance with the rules and regulations, the election of four delegates to the next departmental encampment would be held on April 7 and that complying with the camp bylaws, meetings for the summer would commence at 8 p. m. beginning with April 7 instead of at 7:30, the winter schedule.

The camp has made a 12 per cent net gain in membership during the first three months of Commander Randel's year.

Last reading was given the new ordinance on the Fullerton municipal water program. The new ordinance, part of a general plan for renovating the ordinances of the city, is about the same as the other with a few points clarified. Rates provide for a decrease over old rates.

A request was granted Robert Hatfield of the Junior Chamber of Commerce to invite the San Diego ball team to return again to Fullerton for training. John Strickland was granted his request for use of the city special flood lights for hospitality night April 2, an annual chamber of commerce event.

SHERIFF TO GO TO FLORIDA TO GET PRISONERS

After being blocked on their first attempt by legal barriers raised against extradition of M. R. McKinstry and P. R. Osborne, alleged confidence men wanted here, Orange county authorities today were preparing to bring the two men back from Florida to face prosecution.

McKinstry and Osborne, charged here with grand theft of stocks and bonds from Mrs. Mary Towle, of Santa Ana, two years ago, have exhausted their legal means of resisting extradition, it is stated, with a decision by the Florida supreme court denying their petition for release on a writ of habeas corpus.

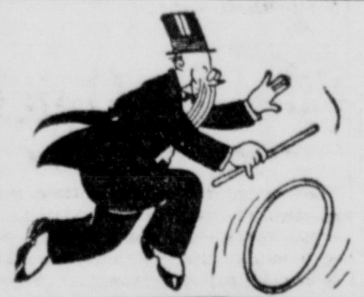

Sheriff Logan Jackson was granted leave of absence from the state by the county supervisors late yesterday, preparatory for making a personal trip to Florida after the prisoners, accompanied by Herman J. Zabel, superintendent of his identification bureau.

Exciting adventures befell Zabel and County Jailor Theo. "Budge" Lacy when they went east for the prisoners a few months ago. McKinstry and Osborne had signified their intention of waiving extradition, so the officers went there without requisition papers from the California governor. Then the prisoners changed their minds and decided to resist extradition.

There was a delay while the requisition documents were being prepared and sent east. Meanwhile, Zabel and Lacy decided to cut some red tape by loading their prisoners on a train and bringing them home. The local police gently but firmly took the prisoners and put them back in jail.

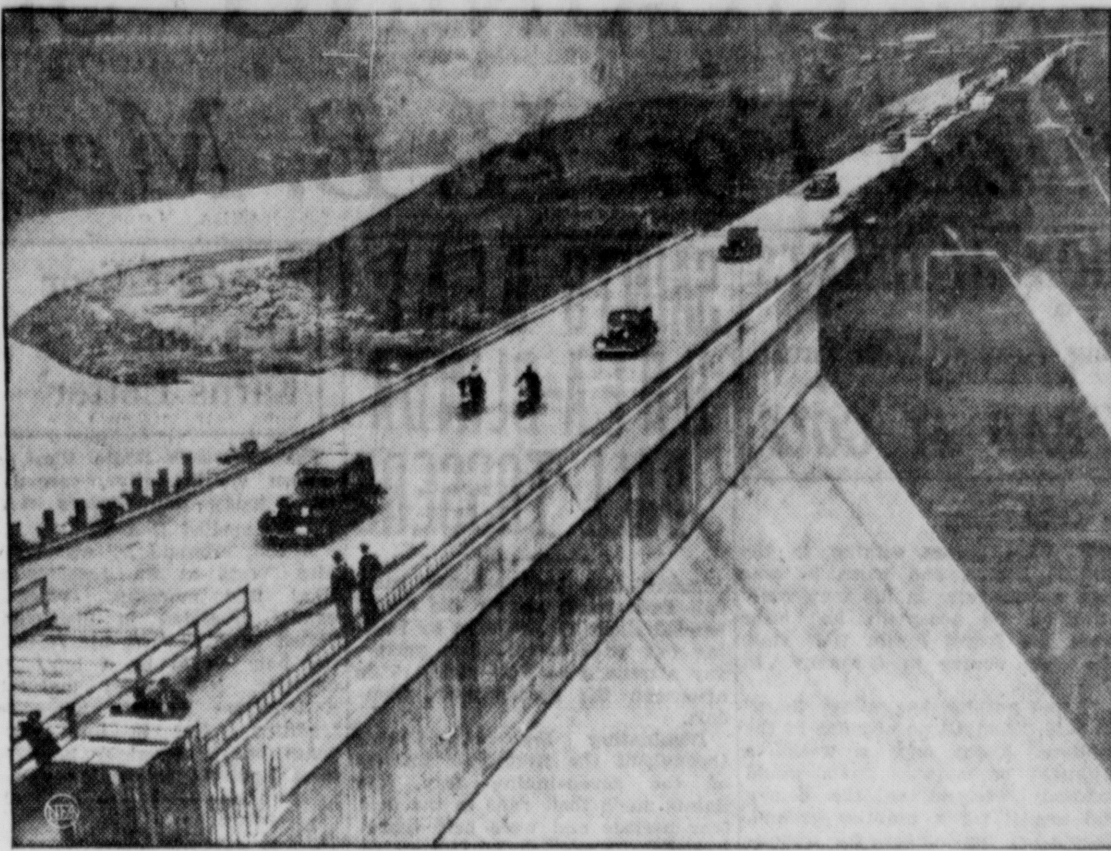

The requisition papers reached Florida and were honored by the Florida governor, but the prisoners filed petition for a writ of habeas corpus, which has been carried successfully but not successfully up to the highest court of the state. Now they're through.

First Autos Spin Across Norris Dam 'Highway'

Taking part in the first automobile ride across the top of Norris Dam, TVA officials and visiting dignitaries formed a motorcade which, as shown above, rolled slowly over the 22-foot-wide roadway, not yet paved, which spans the top of the huge monolith. In this scene, taken shortly after official ceremonies signaled closing of the sluice gates and backing up of a huge, man-made lake, the great bulk of Norris Dam is evident. Pulp Love Stories

Recently, I have encountered considerable interest in what is known in the writing world as the "love pulp." The love pulp is a clean, romantic story, featuring the girl of eighteen to twenty-three or four. It always involves "being in love" or "falling in love."

The well-written love pulp story is motivated by love, complicated by love, and solved by love. Which may sound like a lot of love, but I can assure you if you didn't use anything but "mush" in a story of that type, it would come back so fast you'd think it was a rubber "return ball."

Adventure, mystery, even a touch of humor is welcomed by the "love pulp" but it must not overshadow the love element. Your heroine—the leading character MUST be a heroine, with the story told from the girl's point of view—must want the love of some man more than anything else. She may not realize it at first, she may not admit it even after she knows it, but the love must be there if you are going to write a typical love story.

American Settings
Love pulps prefer an American setting, and typical American girl leads. There has been a big change in the love pulp magazines the past few years, and if you have not read one lately, and you contemplate writing a "love pulp," by all means invest a few quarters—or even half dollars—and read the latest love story magazines on the newsstands.

Today's love pulp heroine is a lively girl, with a strictly modern viewpoint and vocabulary. She is neither silly nor weak, in fact, one of my friends who writes for the love pulps, insists upon her heroines acting a little "mean." I don't think you need to go that far, but no girl of today—or any other day—is perfect, and you don't want to draw your fiction girls that way.

Real Characters
Make your heroines live normal, everyday lives, and act like normal everyday creatures. If you do that, your heroines will make mistakes. They will "talk out of turn" once in a while, just as every girl does once in a while. They will get into jams—and they will have to get themselves out.

Don't let circumstances—or any other thing—or person—get your girl character out of the mess she has gotten herself into. She must solve her own problems, make her own decisions. She must bring about the climax of the story, herself.

"Love pulps" must be glamorous. They must reek with pretty clothes and romantic surroundings. Don't be afraid to describe how your heroine looked—if she looked pretty. Parties—dances—moonlight rides—the beach—here are the occasions your love pulp reader adores. Throw in a liberal flavoring of them. You don't have to have your entire story center around them, but be sure your plot takes in a little beauty of environment, even if it only for contrast.

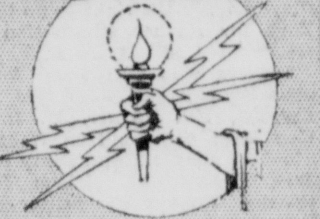

Keep the story moving! Keep your characters natural! And most important of all, be sure you have a STORY to tell!

STORIES IN STAMPS

GODDESS OF WAR AND WISDOM

JUST before Metis, goddess of wisdom, was to give birth to a child, her husband, the great god Zeus, swallowed her! And so, when the time of birth arrived, Hephaestus cleft the head of Zeus and out sprang the child in full armor.

By this legendary beginning, the goddess Athena was endowed with the power of her father and the wisdom of her mother. As goddess of war, she was distinct from Mars, for her wars were always just. She could hurl thunderbolts, prolong the life of man, and foretell the future. Athens made her its patron goddess and built to her what is perhaps the most famous of all Greek temples and one of the most beautiful examples of ancient Greek architecture still extant.

When Bellerophon was sent to slay the dread Chimera, Athena tamed the flying horse, Pegasus, so that he might ride it. Appropriately the new seven drachmae stamp in the recent mythological series of Greece presents this famous goddess holding the bridle of Pegasus.

NURSE WHO MARRIED SUNSET BEACH INVALID IS REFUSED ESTATE BY JUDGE JAS. ALLEN

Mrs. Cecile McCarty Batchelder, who already had divorced or buried five husbands when she acquired her sixth, Robert C. Batchelder, Sunset Beach invalid, and his $15,000 estate, had started as assistant maid in the Batchelder home, but quickly and efficiently displaced his nurse-housekeeper, and his three sons, so that he disinherited them in his will.

She took her patient to Yuma, joined the Batchelder household as maid, to assist Mrs. Lewis. Within two months she had assisted Mrs. Lewis clear out of the home, and took her place, evidence at the court hearing showed.

Not only that, but in less than another month, there was a new will, dated July 6, 1934, containing the provision about the nurse who had been so kind that wages were not sufficient compensation. It was worded almost identically like the previous will, except that it bore the name Cecile McCarty, instead of Mildred Lewis.

There were other differences, instead of leaving the bulk of the estate to the three sons, it left them each $1. No more, no less.

There was a $1000 legacy to Harold M. Strong, of San Diego, and the Batchelder safe business at Sunset beach was willed to an employee, Harvey Burnett. But the rest all went to Cecile.

Then, in March, 1935, Cecile and her patient went to Yuma, and the wedding ceremony was performed in the automobile. The one-time assistant maid was now lady of the house. And chief beneficiary under the will.

But before her husband died—just 11 days before he died—she became sole beneficiary, except for the $3 for the three sons. A codicil was executed January 3, this year, cancelling the $1000 legacy to Strong, and taking the safe business away from Burnett.

Then, on January 19, he died in peace, and Cecile brought the will and codicil to court to be probated. But the court said "no." Not a thousand times no. Just once. That was enough.

NAP RUCKER MAY GET BACK JOB

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 18.—The Brooklyn club dismissed the famous old southpaw, Nap Rucker, as a scout after he recommended Pitcher Tom Baker. When they examined Baker's record in the Evangelical league, the "Dodger" officials felt certain there was something wrong with Rucker's vision. . . . Yet here is Baker back for a second spring and looking like a finished pitcher. . . . The Dodger club, after being recalled from Allentown toward the far end of the season. . . . He can paste the pellet, too. . . . The Brooklyn club really ought to give Rucker his job back. . . . Van Lingle Mungo is the oldest Dodger from the point of continuous service, yet one of the youngest. . . . Mungo, who held out for $12,000, conducts a cotton gin, a department store and a grocery store at Paeleland, S. C., a town of 1600. . . . The main street of Paeleland, which is all of a block long, is plastered with Mungo signs. . . . Dutch Leonard, who was a flop in his second year, is dusting off his knuckle ball. . . . Wayne Osborne, up from the San Francisco missions, lost the nubs of his thumb and index finger when he was 3 years old. . . . He picked up a stick of dynamite used for clearing vineyards, and blew up the family kitchen instead. . . . Wayne does not know how he happens to be alive to tell the tale.

Commission Drops Horse Doping Probe

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.—(UP)—Unless a bottle of caffeine taken from a San Francisco safety deposit box can be linked definitely with track operators or horsemen, the California state racing commission will not investigate the case, it was announced today.

"We have had no evidence in recent months that horse-doping is being carried on at any California tracks," Harding J. McGuire, commission official, said.

"Whenever we hear of the discovery of a supply of drugs which might be intended for use at the tracks, we regard the find as a tip," But the careful examination to which all race horses are subjected before post time makes it virtually impossible for any animal to enter a race doped," he said.

Tanforan track officials commented similarly, explaining that they retain veterinarians and chemists to examine the horses before each race.

Barber Gives Tip
Edward Wygant, barber on the Dollar liner President Hoover, set off the investigation here, arrested by federal agents at San Pedro allegedly in possession of narcotics, he directed agents to the safety deposit box here, which he said contained "stuff to make horses run faster."

The caffeine was in five-ounce capsules secreted in the safety deposit box opened by federal agents. They located it in a San Francisco bank after questioning the ship's harbor at San Pedro. They reported they found a cleverly concealed cache containing about $2500 worth of narcotics aboard the liner.

The federal agents indicated they were not interested in the horse-doping angles and that any action would have to be taken by state authorities.

The reaction of the state racing commission indicated little would come of the discovery.

Rigid Examination
McGuire pointed out that at Tanforan the racing commission introduced the first receiving barn at an American track. Horses entered in the racing there must appear at the barn an hour before the starting time of the race.

A state veterinarian examines their eyes to determine whether pupils are dilated—a sign of doping—and frequent saliva tests are made to detect presence of a stimulant or depressant.

"We have found absolutely no hint that any 'doping' has been attempted in the present meet and there hasn't been a race which would indicate any irregularity this season," McGuire said. "Wygant is not known at Tanforan and we have nothing to indicate he ever operated there."

Although federal agents have been active at other tracks in tracing and prosecuting "horse-dopers," it was explained they turned the caffeine capsules over to the state in this instance because caffeine is not a narcotic drug.

Two class "C" field records went by the boards yesterday afternoon when the Santa Ana High school class "B" and "C" track teams met the Willard Junior high school tracksters on Poly field.

Breaking his second class "C" record within two weeks, little sophomore Laurence Dresser put the 8-pound shot 45 feet 10 1/2 inches to break by more than a foot and a half the existing mark of 43 feet 11 inches made in 1932 by Russell Ramsdell. The second mark to fall was the high jump. Byron Bates jumped 5 feet, 3 inches to shatter the mark that had been on the books since 1930. The old mark was 5 feet, 2 inches.

The high school tracksters overwhelmed the Willard "B" men 67-24. The Santa "C" team were barely nosed out by two points, the Indians winning, 37-35.

BRADLEY TRAINS TRIO

continue the good work that featured his complete comeback in 1935, when he won 13 and lost 8, and had the lowest earned run average of any Dodger finger. . . . Linus Frey is the only infielder who played regularly with the Dodgers last season. . . . The St. Louis youngster led the club in home runs. . . . The Dodgers are introducing two new regular outfielders, Freddie Lindstrom and Randy Moore. . . . All save Frenchy Bordagaray of the reserves are strangers, too. . . . Buzz Boyle, Jimmy Bucher, Danny Taylor and the late Lou Koenekke did most of the Brooklyn relieving last season. . . . Buster Mills, refugee from the Cardinal chain gang, was christened Colonel. . . . He first attracted attention while representing the University of Texas.

EARN SHAW IN FINE SHAPE
George Earnshaw has been here for seven weeks. . . . His problem since he left the A's has been condition. . . . Right now Big Moose is the most advanced pitcher on the Dodger roster. . . . Young Harry Eisenstat struck out 215 batters in helping Dayton win the second half championship of the Middle Atlantic league in 1935. . . . Catcher Al Lopez invited Eisenstat to Ebbets field after he and Coach Otto Miller had addressed students of Brooklyn's James Madison High school. Eisenstat will not become a age until October. . . . He has a splendid chance of becoming one of the game's great left-handers.

. . . Brooklyn gave Baltimore cash, outfielder Glen Chapman and another player for Albert Max Butcher, a 6-foot 5-inch, 205-pound right-hander who won 24 games for Galveston last term. . . . The Dodgers work in what is perhaps the best park in Florida. . . . Clearwater, which has been without a major league club for some years, appreciates the presence of the Brooklynites.

Coach Reece ("Pinky") Greene today indicated that he will take 22 Saints in his Santa Ana high school cinder troupe which Saturday enters the Huntington Beach Southern Counties track and field meet.

The extravaganza which yearly draws outstanding performers from all over Southern California, this spring has enticed another large entry. Twenty-two schools will send over 200 athletes to the carnival.

Chaffey, with 31 men, has the largest entry list while San Diego has listed a retinue of 50 tracksters.

Coach B. B. Rough's Montebello squad will be one of the teams to beat Saturday. In a meet at Brea last week the Montebello tracksters annexed 46 out of 44 first places.

NOT GOOD, NOT BAD AT GOLF

BY HENRY McLEMORE (United Press Staff Correspondent)

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.—A few years before coming to the United States, and when he was just a youngster in his very early twenties, he accepted an offer from the Royal Berlin Golf club, the only course in Germany at that time.

"I had nothing but misery there," he said. "And all on account of the soldiers. About once a week a regiment or more of them would suddenly descend on the course and use it for a practice ground. They'd use the bunkers for trenches, and the fairways for practicing charges on their horses. They'd run right over the green, thousands of them."

Soldiers Always Right
"It got so bad that the members, many of whom were Americans and Englishmen, asked the American and English ambassador to speak to the Kaiser. They did, and I remember his answer when they requested the soldiers be kept off the course. He simply said:

"In Germany the soldiers are always right."

"But he did tell the ambassadors that he would be glad to have a course laid out on his private grounds at Potsdam. So I went out and laid out an 18-hole course. It was a pleasure, too. For you never saw such turf in your life."

"It was so fine, that the fairways were better than any green in this country today. But they didn't last long. The royal gardeners, who had tended the turf for years, and loved each blade of grass as though it were a baby, became absolutely horrified when they saw some of the dub players dig those big divots dubs always dig. So, after about a week of play on the royal grounds, came a message that the Kaiser would not countenance his turf being destroyed. So we had to move back with the soldiers."

Mitchell was the first golf professional to teach in Germany, A Coach Terrio of the U. S. S. S. "Til knock this Lowe fellow stuff," said Kimball "and then want to get in the ring with LeMon."

Sampson, however, has different plans. Win, lose or draw the Orange County boxing promoter plans to rematch Lowe and LeMon for the third time. According to plans they will meet March 27 in a five round match. Each has earned a decision over the other and in a five round bout it is believed a decisive winner should come to light.

Ten bouts instead of the usual eight-bout card will be offered this week, with the cream of the Orange County crop in action, including Porky Bell, Jimmy Merced, Jungle Jim Woodroof, Flash Flores and Schoolboy Paul Brown.

TWO MAJOR PROBLEMS FACE CITY LEAGUE COMMISSION

Two important problems will face them for solution tomorrow night when commissioners of the City Night Ball League meet in the office of Lloyd Banks, in the city hall. The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock.

Problems facing the commissioners are, decision on the size ball to be used this year and which of the nine applicants for league membership will be dropped. The league will be an eight-team loop and there are nine applications on hand.

Last season the 13 1/2 inch ball was used in the city league but every indication points to adoption of the 13 inch sphere for 1936.

The matter of what size ball shall be used will not be as difficult to solve as will the question of what team will be dropped from the list of applications, according to Judge Kenneth Morrison who is president of the league. Applications have been received from teams representing the Elks, Spurgeon Memorial church, First National Bank, Commercial National Bank, Carpenters' Local, Joe's Grocery, Knights of Columbus, Standard Oil Service Stations and the Southern Counties Gas company.

Morrison said today that preference would be given the first five teams on the list as they were in the loop last year. Solution of the problem, he said, probably will resolve itself in picking the other three teams in the order in which they filed their applications and deposited the $15 league entry fee.

This letter did much to soothe Dean's ruffled feelings, but he has sent word back to Rickey to meet him at his own home, located five miles from here at Palma Sola. Baseball writers here believe Dean will be signed before the end of the week.

SCHOOL GROUPS OF COUNTY TO AID PROJECT

LAGUNA BEACH, March 18.—Complete plans for the kite flying contest sponsored by the Laguna Beach Chamber of Commerce and scheduled to be held on the beach April 11 promptly at noon were announced today.

A large attendance is expected and the committee of the chamber of commerce, consisting of President George A. Portus, Edwin Wilson and Bruce Handy, having charge of preliminary arrangements, has received assurance of co-operation from teachers and principals in schools throughout Orange county.

Over $100 in cash prizes will be awarded the winners in various events in the contest, which is county-wide and open to students, boys and girls alike, in grades five, six, seven and eight of any school in Orange county. A committee from the Laguna beach grade school will register the contestants on the day of the event.

Entry blanks, obtainable from the chamber of commerce, and at the various Orange county schools, must be filed with school principals before April 4.

The prizes are substantial enough to bring out some fine kites and kite-flying talent, including five $10 prizes, five prizes each of $5, two awards of $7.50 each, and five each of $2.50.

Events will include, contest for steepest kite, prettiest or most decorative kite, most unusual kite, largest and smallest kites to fly the time required by the judges, with handicap allowance in string to be in air, ranging from 75 feet for smallest kite, to 250 feet for largest entry, in this particular event. Also included are prizes for the kite with greatest flying range in the air, size, shape, and design of kites being unrestricted.

The main event will be a "battle royal" with over a dozen kites in the air at one time, each striving to disable opposing kites by collision or severance of string. In this event, contestants will be permitted to coast 25 feet of their kite-string with sand or other abrasive. The winner will receive $10, the loser, $5.

He stated that he had met in that location with Murray Thompson, flood control supervisor. Leroy Lyons had gone over the ground with them, but that the county had no funds at present for this project. East La Habra street lies half in the city and half in the county, and has been flooded each time a heavy rain occurs this winter. Residents of the district have complained several times to the city council.

The city clerk reported that there are 987 registered voters in the city limits, who will be eligible to vote at the city election on April 14. The clerk also reported that to date there was 622.71 delinquent on the first half of city taxes and $756.17 on the second half, making a total delinquency of $1378.88. Last year at this time the unpaid amount was $252.62. He stated that he expected a considerable amount of this to come in at the time the second half is due at the county. La Habra city having changed the time for delinquency on the second half this year.

The report of the water department showed the following disbursements for the month of February: Overhead expense, $1,055.00; outside operation and expense, $299.70; office expense, $193.34, making the total disbursements $1549.04. The balance in the operating fund, February totals $3058.11; water sales for February, $1594.50, making a total of $4652.61, which less the total disbursements, leaves a balance of $3103.74. Total water sales for February amounted to $1558.94.

"Have you had any experience as a model?" the girl asked.

Toby turned east. She was aware, as she walked, of a feeling of excitement, a warmth that brought color to her cheeks and made her step light. Oh, if she really could get such a job, could earn half as much money as Hiatt had mentioned. It would be a fortune!

She thought, "But I'm not like those girls in the advertisements. They're beautiful!"

The photographer had seemed to believe that she could be a model, though. He had chosen her for his picture instead of Maurine Hall. Maybe she could do it, after all. Maybe she could—

All the way to the subway station and during the ride uptown Toby kept repeating to herself Hiatt's reassurances. But by the time she reached the office building, panic had taken hold of her.

"With a gulp, she told herself, 'They can't do any more than put me out. And I've got to go through with it now. I promised Mr. Hiatt.'"

Resolutely she opened the door and went inside.

TOBY stepped out of the elevator to face a deserted corridor. She wandered to the right a dozen yards, then to the left. Suddenly she saw the door just ahead. In neat black lettering were the words, "MODELS' LEAGUE, INC."

Toby pushed the door open, entered. The room in which she stood was a rather small office, separated from a larger one by a railing. A girl sat at a desk in one corner of the room. Behind her, lining the walls, were rows of photographs. The girl was talking to a slender, distinguished-looking man with gray hair.

A half dozen chairs stood against the wall at the right. A man and girl were sitting there, the man reading a newspaper. On the left, near the swinging door leading to the office beyond, was a large screen on which a magazine cover and several advertisements, each a photograph, had been fastened.

A small girl in a black fur coat and red hat came through the swinging gate, paused before the screen. Toby suppressed a gasp.

It was the girl—the very same one—pictured on the magazine cover. The girl gazed at the photograph, studying it impersonally. Yes, indeed, it was the same girl—Toby became aware that the girl at the desk was looking at her inquiringly. The slender man had departed. Toby went over to the desk. She said hesitantly, "I'd like to see Mr. Blake."

"What is your name?" the girl asked crisply.

"Oh!" The other girl smiled in friendly fashion. "You're the girl Mr. Hiatt telephoned about?"

"Yes," Toby hadn't known Mr. Hiatt was going to telephone but she would be eternally grateful to him for it.

"Mr. Blake is busy now," the girl at the desk said, "but he'll see you later. While you're waiting you can fill out this card. Have you had any experience as a model?"

Toby said that she had not. The girl did not, as Toby had feared, look as though this was a shocking admission. Instead she said, "I'll let you know when Mr. Blake can see you."

TOBY retired to the farthest chair and began to fill in the card. She wrote her full name, address, and the telephone number at her rooming house. In the space opposite age she wrote "19", opposite weight, wrote 110 pounds. She added that she was 5 feet 3 inches tall, wore size 12 dresses, four-A shoes, 9 stockings, 2 1/2 hats and 6 gloves.

Toby had written many applications for employment but she had never seen such a card as this. Absorbed by her surroundings, the time slipped by quickly. She was startled when she heard her name called.

"Miss Ryan?"

It was the girl at the desk who had spoken. She went on, "Mr. Blake will see you now. Go through the gate and down the corridor. It's the last office on the right."

Toby followed instructions. Before the last door on the right she halted. The door stood open.

Toby hesitated, uncertain whether to knock or speak.

The man inside looked up suddenly, saw her and put down the letter he had been reading. "How do you do," he said. "Did you want to see me?"

He was a broad-shouldered young man, wearing a tweed suit. His hair was dark brown and he had a very straight nose and a wide mouth. Toby, for a fleeting moment, thought she had met him somewhere. That, of course, was impossible. She must have seen him, though. All at once, she knew. His photograph—that was it! She'd seen his photograph a dozen times, advertising a certain make of collars. Or was it shirts?

She said quickly, "Are you Mr. Blake?"

"Yes."

"Then I do want to see you. I'm Toby Ryan."

"Oh, yes. Mr. Hiatt sent you over. Want to be a model, do you?"

"I'd like to try it."

"Come in and sit down," Blake indicated a chair at his right. Toby noticed that the card she had filled out was lying before him. He picked it up, glanced at it for an instant, then at the girl. Then he tapped the edge of the card against his desk.

"Let's have a look at you from the side," he said. "Now the other side—now straight front again."

He continued to study her for several moments, intently. "Well," he said at last, "we may be able to use you. The registration fee is $50 but that comes out of your earnings. You'll have to have photographs, though. Better have three—full-face, profile and standing. You can have them made for $25."

Something in the girl's face stopped him. Toby said, "Oh—I" and then, "Do I have to have the photographs?"

"Why, yes."

Toby got to her feet, gathering up her purse and gloves. "I'm sorry," she said, "I guess I've changed my mind about being a model."

CITATION GIVEN LA HABRA GROUP

LA HABRA, March 17.—For having exceeded its membership quota before November 11, the local post of the American Legion was presented with a national citation Monday evening at Memorial hall. The 21st district presentation, Lieberman, made the presentation, and the local group plans to have it framed for the Memorial hall.

Petition blanks were received at the meeting, asking Congress to pass the Universal Service law.

An Arbor day program was discussed, and inasmuch as the legion has an opportunity to purchase large cactus plants at a reasonable figure, it was decided to ask the city council to cooperate with the post in securing these trees for planting around the city property and that of the Memorial hall.

An invitation was read from the Buena Park Legion, asking the local post to attend the formal opening of the recently completed Legion hall March 19.

The next public dance to be sponsored by the local post and auxiliary is to be held March 21 at Memorial hall.

JIMMY FIDLER in —HOLLYWOOD—

HOLLYWOOD, March 18.—Idle actor never out of work. Between chatter: Joan Crawford, who smears on the most makeup for the screen, wears practically none in private life. And is even more attractive. Candidates for smallest masculine ears: Francis Lederer. Rosalind Russell during girlhood wrote two fan letters, one each to Wallace Reid and Ramon Novarro. She still cherishes their answers and autographed photos. Hollywood's best story teller: Hugh Herbert. His gesticulations sell his yarns, and old ones seem new under his mastery. The good-time sets are those on which Joe E. Brown, Jack Oakie, or Patsy Kelly work. Bon mots, sly tricks and fast repartee "nervous from morn to e'en. Ronald Colman and Edmund Lowe could swap mustaches, and who would know the difference? Peas from the same pod: Myrna Loy and Marian Nixon. Hollywood's newest scene stealer: the veteran "Slim" Summerville, just coming into his own. Frank Craven is one frightened fellow who wants to run pictures he writes plays and screen adaptations. Ned Sparks, cold-pan comedian, has such control of his facial muscles that no man has been able to force a smile to Ned's face against his will. Sparks will wager any amount you can't do it. Randolph Scott in high-topped boots looks perfect young mining engineer. Guinn "Big Boy" Williams, who lives on a ranch, invariably goes to work wearing blue overalls and denim shirt, changing to his picture clothes in a studio dressing room. Many Katharine Hepburn close-ups clutter the cutting-room floor because her mouth, amply proportioned, sometimes photographs even larger.

One of the shyest stars in public places is William Powell. He once told me that he is two-sided. He says that one Powell is the nonchalant chap of motion pictures who is never ruffled. The other is a like a rabbit when he finds himself in a crowd. I spotted Bill in a downtown shopping district yesterday. Instead of speaking, I followed him at discreet distance. His screen suavity had evaporated. He actually covered against sides of buildings, and twice found refuge in shelter of darkened doorways. He slithered around the first corner, darted to a parked cab, and was away. The screen's "Detective Philo Vance" had slunk along like a criminal.

A few of the rulings of the motion picture czar, Will Hays, belong in the "things that bewilder" department. For example, photographs of chorus girls in bathing suits are permissible, but naughty, naughty if a girl's pose reveals the inner sides of her legs. A couple kissing may win a reluctant Hays okeh, provided their pose is upright. If some wicked advertising agent pulls a nifty and turns an upright pose on its side, he draws a letter of censure and perhaps a fine. Will's official inspectors try to evade this issue by deleting all upright poses that might reasonably be turned sideways. Ladies' laced dainties may not show unless there are at least three layers of lace. Black or flesh-colored tights suggesting nudity are positively taboo. And one-piece bathing suits throw the Hays corps into an uproar.

On a Hoot Gibson set today, the cowboy star was staging a fast-riding sequence for his new picture. A cowboy rider was thrown from his horse, thus spoiling the scene. The Hootster rushed over to the fallen-but unhurt—rider, waved a handful of typewritten sheets under his nose, and shouted, "Show me in the script where it says that!" 83 Children Of Zulu Chieftain Tangle Estate

CAPETOWN.—A commission appointed by the government is meeting on the Mangete reserve to consider how the land and property of John Dun, a Zulu chieftain, should be divided among his 83 children.

So many others have come forward claiming to be his children and demanding a share that the commission may be unable to finish the task.

Dunn was a white man, the child of European parents, and was born in Natal 100 years ago. As a young man he traded with the Zulus and became a friend of Cetewayo. He then went to live among the Zulus and became a chief. He had several wives, according to native custom, and acquired 10,000 acres of land.

After his death disputes arose in the family over the division of his property. A special commission was appointed to decide who were his lawful heirs. It was then announced that each child living on the reserve should receive 100 acres, while those outside should be content with what they had received.

The family quarrel became more acute as those outside threatened to sell their lands and return to the reserve.

The song "Dixie" was written by Daniel Emmett, who was born in the north. It was written as a number to be sung in a minstrel show.

OCEANVIEW WELL DOWN 4000 FEET

OCEANVIEW, March 18.—The Morton well of the West American Oil company has reached a depth, between 3500 and 4000 feet and is making rapid progress. The contract calls for 6500 feet unless oil or gas is found in paying quantities at a lesser depth. This well passed through a tar zone, or upper low gravity oil sand at 2500 feet, which compares fairly well with the formation in the Huntington Beach field three miles away.

The well has probably the finest equipment ever placed on a wildcat well in Orange county. The men have every protection and all modern drilling methods are being used. Mr. Morton is an independent operator, owns the well 100 per cent and has no interest of any sort for sale.

Contest Features Dance at High School

Miss Lorraine Turk and Delbert Beard formed a student dance team winning laurels yesterday noon at Polytechnic High school's noon dance, when a contest was conducted by Miss Mignon Callish of Los Angeles and Santa Ana, and Clay Irwin of Desert Inn, Palm Springs.

Partners were selected, and a general dance ensued. Miss Callish, who has just concluded two years of instruction at Scripps and Pomona colleges, and Mr. Irwin, dance instructor at Palm Springs, officiated as judges. Fox trots, waltzes and onesies were danced by the participating students.

The contest followed a special assembly during which Miss Callish and Mr. Irwin conducted a demonstration in ballroom dancing for the entire student body. The two demonstrated the extreme styles in dancing in contrast to styles considered in good taste on any ballroom floor.

For the past few weeks, Miss Callish has been devoting her time to giving special ballroom training to physical education teachers in Los Angeles and Santa Ana, it is reported.

Hostess Trio Extends Party Courtesy to Miss Dunton

Forming a charming hostess trio, the Misses Ruth Warner, Barbara Crawford and Dorothy Gowdy were hostesses last night at a shower honoring Miss Barbara Dunton, whose marriage to Paul Hales will be an event of this week.

The party had its setting in the Gowdy home, 820 Kilson drive, where quantities of sweet peas, snapdragons and poppies brightened rooms.

That popular game, monopoly, was played, with the result that Miss Elaine Hatch won first prize. Miss Dunton was showered with prettily wrapped packages which proved to contain linens.

Said, open-faced sandwiches and coffee were served at tables centered with vari-colored sweet peas.

Guests of the three hostesses, in addition to Miss Dunton, were the Misses Margaret Sawyer, Beatrice Granas, Cara Cogan, Helen Wilkie, Georgina Irvin, Ruth Baker, Lucille Cook, Yvette Blank, Valerie Demetriou, Charlotte Mock, Frances Was, Lois Murray, Gwen Griffin, Mary Lou McFarland, Medora Smith, Elaine Hatch.

County Group Honors Eastern Star Grand Associate Matron

Stopping in Santa Ana en route to Los Angeles from Arizona, Mrs. Rita May Cooper of Sacramento, Eastern Star grand associate matron, was honored yesterday at luncheon in the home of Mrs. W. G. Lewis, 1916 North Flower street.

The occasion also served as a housewarming, since Mr. and Mrs. Lewis so recently have taken possession of their new residence.

Orange County Associate Star Matrons' association gave the luncheon. Sharing honors with Mrs. Cooper was Mrs. Gertrude Connant of Sacramento. The two received corsage bouquets. The association's gift to Mrs. Cooper, presented by the president, Mrs. Clara Wilson of Fullerton, was a gold bracelet and clip set, and a cluster of ivory and gold flowers fashioned by Mrs. Ruth Abplanalp. The latter has made similar lasting bouquets for association members to wear to their parties.

Mrs. Cooper reported on Arizona Grand Star chapter which she attended in Phoenix. She announced that California Grand chapter will convene in October in Sacramento.

Glassware, linens and all appointments for luncheon in the Lewis home were in green and white in celebration of St. Patrick's day. Green tapers and a bowl of white sweet peas contributed to the effective setting.

Present with the two honor guests were Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Max Gowdy, Santa Ana; Mesdames Clara Wilson, May Galloway, Fullerton; Lucille Decker, Artesia; Myrtle Clayton, La Habra Heights; and May Henry, Garden Grove, sponsors of the association; Ruth Abplanalp, Buena Park; Olive Mason, Laguna Beach; Rae Bunch, Orange; Hazel Paquette, Huntington Beach; Catherine Leadley, Yorba Linda; Alice Keele, Garden Grove; Lillian Brogas, La Habra; Esther Gale, Brea.

The next regular meeting of the association will be held Saturday in the La Habra home of Mrs. Hodges. Mrs. Clayton will be co-hostess.

Junior College News

In the solemn light of candles and surrounded by the traditions of preceding ceremonies, members of the women's service clubs of Santa Ana Junior college Monday night held formal initiation services for this semester.

Las Gitanas held their gatherings in the home of their past president, Miss Jean McAuley. The candlelight ceremony was presided over by Miss Elizabeth Sturdevant, president, in a setting of spring flowers. The eight pledges were presented with corsage bouquets of sweet peas in the vari-colored hues of the society's colors. Following the ceremony, refreshments were served by the hostesses and Miss Ruth Wasson. The affair culminated with a theater party.

Las Meninas chose as the scene for initiation, the home of Miss Barbara Davis, 1615 North Broadway, decorated with yellow and white flowers. The ceremony was performed in the light of matching candles. The five pledges were presented with corsage bouquets. Refreshments were served by the Misses Mary Wallace, Eloise Walker and Eva Berge. Others directing the affair were the Misses Lois Pranke, Beatrice Granas, Helen Wilkie, Helena Bailey, Marian Pritchard, Julianne Wolven and Dorothy Amling.

Spinsters The home of Miss Frances Was, 617 Orange avenue, was scene of initiation for Spinsters. Four pledges were initiated by Miss Louise Sexton, presiding in the light of one tall green taper. The pledges were presented with corsages of white gardenias and served by Miss Polly Angne, assisted by the Misses Jean Reuter and Jean Palmer.

Piloteers Members of the Piloteers held their ceremony in the Visel-Haughton studios. The room was decorated with masses of spring flowers, colorful in the light of the candles. Miss L. L. Newolt presided over the initiation of the ten pledges. Refreshments were served.

Dinner Hosts Plan Variety Of Entertainment Features

Variety was the keynote in entertainment, appointments and in party setting last night when Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Walker were hosts. For early evening hours found Mr. and Mrs. Walker receiving at a formal dinner which was staged in James' gold room, and later the party scene was transferred to the Walker home, 311 West Third street, with contract bridge as entertainment.

In the gold room Mrs. Walker had lined the walls with baskets of acacia blossoms, waving like golden plumes in the light of the dinner tapers. For the tables, she used the most brilliant of ranunculus blooms all of which had been produced in her own home garden. The glowing green of the candles was a harmonious accent to the date on which the event fell, St. Patrick's Day.

Dinner gaiety Accompanying the place cards were amusing queries for the feminine guests to propound to their dinner partners, a feature in which Mrs. Walker had the assistance of Mrs. George R. Wells. Each of these questions might be answered with the first line of some well known song and the men were required to sing their replies, a feature provocative of much hilarity. Miss Fern Tedrow also assisted in one of the dinner features, the conducting of "kindergarten classes" in well known fruits and vegetables.

When the diners sought the home of their hosts for the after-dinner contract session it was again to be greeted by flowers in unusual profusion. Recent Book Analyzed By Mrs. Cloyes for Jr. Ebell Section

Her own reactions to the best-seller, "Europa," (Briffault) were given last night by Mrs. J. M. Cloyes when she was guest speaker for Junior Ebell Book Review section meeting in the Dan Maloney home, 930 South Broadway.

Mrs. Robert Guild (Betty Maloney), Mrs. Herbert Stroschein and Mrs. Arthur Wade formed the hostess trio, assisted by Mollie Maloney who received guests at the door. Mrs. Cloyes gave a careful analysis of "Europa," summarizing its qualities and its plot, and also read excerpts to illustrate some of her points. She compared the book with others of recent publication but not always to the advantage of "Europa," which according to her own personal opinion, fails to measure up to such books as "Anthony Adverse," to which it is comparable in length.

Her understanding of salient points and her careful analysis were outstanding things which added to the interest and pleasure experienced by her auditors.

During a business meeting conducted by Mrs. Guild, leader as well as hostess, definite selection was made of the date of May 23 for the section's annual spring informal dance. Place has not yet been selected but Mrs. Crawford Nalle will announce that important item in the near future. Miss Betty Wiswall will be in charge of tickets.

Mrs. Francis Horton will receive the section at the next meeting, in her Rush street home with Mrs. Chester Horton and Mrs. Russell Sullivan as hostesses with her.

During the social interval, Mrs. Cloyes and Mrs. Russell Wilson were asked to pour coffee at the lace spread table, especially effective with its massed sweet peas and touches of St. Patrick green. This Hibernian accent appeared also in the shamrock sandwiches, cookies and decorated cake served.

Section members enjoyed entertaining with Mrs. Cloyes, her house guest, Mrs. O. A. Severance of Kansas City, while members present were the Misses Harriet Gratt, Betty Wiswall, Lolita Mead, Mesdames Frederick Elliott, Albert Harvey, Charles McDaniel, Harold Dale, Oliver Lindemeyer, Russell Sullivan, Francis Horton, Chester Horton, Russell Wilson, George Walker, Crawford Nalle, G. Stanley Norton, Thoburn White, Raymond Terry, F. E. Mead Jr., Gordon Richmond and Alvin Stauffer.

Luncheon Precedes Sewing Session Mrs. Charles C. Cozad was hostess at a luncheon recently in her home, 804 East First street, entertaining a little group of members of the First Methodist David and Margaret group. Brightened with many flowers, the home provided a pretty setting for the event.

The hostess' daughter-in-law, Mrs. J. P. Cozad, assisted in serving. Luncheon guests were Mrs. Louise Satterwhite, Mrs. Ella Bridenstine, Mrs. Elizabeth McLeod and Mrs. C. M. Halderman.

Mrs. Halderman, director of work for the organization, had arranged for an afternoon of quilting for which luncheon guests were joined by other members of the church group. Dr. Evalene Peo, president, conducted a short business meeting during which plans were made to hold a quilting meeting April 9 in the home of Mrs. Satterwhite, 405 Wakeham avenue.

Upland Guests Inspire Anniversary Dinner There was a pleasant reunion of old-time friends Sunday in the W. D. Barker home, 430 South Birch street, where Mr. and Mrs. Barker were dinner hosts to Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Andrews of Upland.

The occasion was the 52nd wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Andrews, and their hosts had planned a turkey dinner in celebration of the event. The two families were close friends during the several years' residence of Mr. and Mrs. Barker in Upland, and the men were special cronies on the golf course. Mr. and Mrs. Barker's golden wedding was celebrated in the past October.

Last week Mr. Barker observed his 74th birthday anniversary, and in honor of the event, the children in the family circle assembled in the South Birch street home, to enjoy one of Mrs. Barker's famous dinners. They were the three sons, Roy Barker of Alhambra, with Mrs. Barker, Sam D. Barker of Upland, and W. Ralph Barker of this city with Mrs. Ralph Barker and their little daughter Joan Adele.

Sister Mary's Kitchen By MARY E. DAGUE (NEA Service Staff Writer) Colorful holidays in late winter give me all kinds of gay ideas for party food—do you?

First of all is an every-day thought for the study-club hostess who wants to serve something good but not elaborate. How about ginger bread with whipped cream and coffee? One pint of whipping cream makes just enough whipped cream for the gingerbread for twenty-four.

A luxurious Sunday-go-to-meeting dish for the bridge luncheon is mushroom timbales with Bechamel sauce. One and one-half cups chopped mushrooms, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-2 cup stale bread crumbs, 1 cup milk, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs. Melt butter and add mushrooms. Cook five minutes. Add milk and bread crumbs and cook five minutes longer. Season with salt and pepper and add yolks of eggs well beaten. Remove from fire and fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff. Fill buttered molds two-thirds full and place in a pan of hot water. Cover with buttered paper and bake 25 minutes in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.). Unmold on a hot serving dish and serve.

Bechamel Sauce One and one-half cups chopped onion, 2 slices carrot, bay leaf, 1 sprig parsley, 6 peppercorns, 4 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup cream, 1-8 teaspoon white pepper, yolks 2 eggs.

If chicken stock is not at hand, dissolve 2 bouillon cubes in 1 cup boiling water. Add onion, carrot, bay leaf, parsley and peppercorns. Cover and simmer 20 minutes. Strain and cool. Melt butter, add flour and cook and stir until bubbling. Add stock slowly, stirring to avoid lumps. Cook until thick and smooth. Add cream and egg yolks beaten together and keep hot.

THE TINYMITES

The Tinymites crawled all around, and kept their eyes upon the ground. "Aw, we will never find a four-leaf clover," Duncy said.

"I'd like to have good luck, You bet! But I'm not sure that's what I'd get. The rest of you can keep on looking. I will snore, instead."

"Go on," snapped Windy. "We don't care, but we'll keep looking everywhere. You simply are a lazy lad. That's why you want to rest."

"I don't know how you have much fun, because you seldom get things done. Why can't you be real peppy? That's what makes one feel the best."

Wee Duncy didn't answer. He was sound asleep as he could be. The cattail eyed him for a moment. Then he had a hunch.

"I'll call some little ants and they upon wee Duncy's nose can play," exclaimed the cattail. "That will give a laugh to all the bunch."

He found an ant hill right near-by. One of the ants said, "Sure, we'll try to pester that wee fellow." Then they started crawling round.

Soon Duncy started in to snore. Off of his face the wee ants tore. One of them said, "Oh, we just cannot stand that awful sound."

Then pretty Dotty shouted, "Hip, hurrah! I guess this is my lucky day. I've found a four-leaf clover. I will share my luck with all."

The clover then began to grow, and Duncy loudly cried out, "Oh, I wonder how big it will get? At first, it was real small."

The clover grew to Dotty's size and Golly cried, "Look! It has eyes." "Of course I have," the clover said. "Come, Dotty, dance with me."

"Course Dotty felt real safe and sound, so they joined hands and danced around. 'I've found new friends,' the clover said. "I'm happy as can be."

THE FLAVOR LASTS

LESSIE IS SEEN AS LAST STAND FOR ETHIOPIANS

By James L. Rohrbaugh

DESSYE, Ethiopia—(UP)—The placid town of Dessye has overnight become one of the most important cities of Ethiopia and suddenly found itself acting capital when the Emperor arrived.

Natives think the ultimate defense of Ethiopia will be fought near here. No one remotely dreams the Italians could advance this far but if they do, the last-ditch fight will be just north of here.

Dessye is built upon a high mountain surrounded by mountains. In the early warring days a village's safety depended upon its height and the ability of its guardians to see the enemy while afar. No one could approach Dessye unseen, and the few trails leading to it could be blocked so easily as to make conquest well-nigh impossible.

Location Is Strategic

The town seemingly could not be conquered by planes, for even though bombed the wooded mountain offers abundant shelter. It is difficult to see how heavy guns could be brought over the mountains to bear upon it. If taken, infantry must do it, strategists say.

It might be a Quebec again, but it is more probable that its wary guardians wouldn't be caught asleep.

The soldiers somehow have procured tents, and those who have none make them from any cloth, hay, straw, reeds, matting or whatever is available. They are pitched irregularly but the infinite variety of their design and color gives a picturesque touch to the whole.

The meadows all around Dessye are covered with tents. Men spend their time talking, riding sleek mules, dashing madly on wild horses—lances raised for combat. Women do the work and children spend their time gazing at the wonders of the city and looking at foreigners.

LIVESTOCK VALUE INCREASES

Guard India's $500,000,000 Baby

Fear of possible kidnap attempts led 24 of Europe's crack detectives to Hyderabad, India, to guard this baby—$500,000,000 grandson of the world's richest man—during a trip with his mother to the Riviera, where her exiled Imperial relatives live. Before her marriage to Crown Prince Sahibzada Azam Jah, son of the fabulously wealthy Nizam of Hyderabad, premier prince of India, the mother, Crown Princess of Hyderabad, shown with the baby, was Princess Daru Shahvar, a daughter of the last Sultan and Caliph of Turkey.

Man Bound Over On Assault Count

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 18.—Watts Agner, charged with beating Sam Goodman over the head with brass knuckles was bound over in the city police court yesterday in the sum of $1000 to await trial in superior court. Agner failed to make bond and was taken to the county jail.

The story as related by witnesses in court was to the effect that Agner's wife has obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce and that Goodman called at the house on business. Agner, who was in the vicinity is alleged to have entered the yard and attacked Goodman, using the brass knuckles. The assault occurred about 10 days ago. Goodman, whose hearing is impaired, claimed he did not know what the trouble was all about until after the fray. He was knocked unconscious and then beaten, he charged. Agner did not take the stand in his own defense, preferring to wait until the superior court trial.

DISCUSS OUR PROBLEMS

At their meeting today the Santa Ana Kiwanis Club presented a program worthy of adoption by all service clubs and other organizations. There was no outside speaker talking theory. Club members debated one of California's most serious problems—taxation.

It is a fact that no nation, state or community can exist without taxes but, at the same time, taxation that places the burden on the shoulders least able to bear it is bad taxation. At the next election California voters will be called upon to decide whether or not the state's system of taxation shall be changed.

Strong factions, both for and against the proposed change in the method of levying taxes, have arisen and are willing to spread the gospel of their beliefs but this gospel is worthless in that it is colored with the paint brush of propaganda.

Through sponsoring a debate on this question between fellow members of the organization, all of them responsible business men of community standing, the Kiwanis club is rendering a service of inestimable value. The members discussed the problem, calmly, as among friends, each member knowing that the others were anxious to arrive at the true answer to the greatest problem facing the state today. Maybe there were no converts made but the discussion was valuable in that it presented both sides of a controversial question in a dispassionate manner.

There are very few problems that could not be solved through friendly discussion with both sides of the question ably represented. In the debate conducted today the Kiwanis club pointed the way. It is only a step farther to debates on similar problems with one or more service clubs taking part in the discussion. The problem may not be solved but the spirit of friendship engendered through the discussion makes it easier to reach an understanding.

UNFORTUNATE INCIDENT

A boy 13 years old, Loraine Williams of Yorba Linda, met death in the waters of the Y. M. C. A. pool here Monday night, but it has been determined that his death cannot be attributed to drowning or to an accident. The youth was victim of an illness which caused his death.

While the entire county was shocked at the untimely death of the Yorba Linda boy, it must be remembered that death is no respecter of time or place, and strikes swiftly at times in the most unexpected manner.

The point involved is this: the death of the boy cannot be marked down as accidental, death having come from natural causes.

It was the first time in 12 years of operation of the Y. M. C. A. pool that such a tragic event has occurred and was first such occurrence in the 33 years of experience of Secretary Ralph C. Smedley of the Y. M. C. A.

Accidents take place all over the country, in the home, on the street, in the forest and in the city. Accidents happen in the best supervised playgrounds. This death at the local Y. M. C. A. should not alarm anyone. It could have happened anywhere. Let's all remember that and continue to give the Y. M. C. A. the necessary support to maintain the institution of which the city can justly be proud.

HEARTENING NEWS

Business in Santa Ana is making consistent and considerable progress toward normalcy, it was shown last night when Secretary Phil M. Brown of the Business Men's Association reported at the annual association banquet that his organization increased its credit reports by 39 per cent last year over the previous year.

This is most heartening news. It shows definitely that conditions in business are on the up-grade, these credit reports representing inquiries from merchants regarding prospective purchasers. If 39 per cent more persons wanted credit during the past year, it is safe to assume that a substantial increase in business was enjoyed by local merchants during last year.

It might be suggested that the committee in charge of last night's meeting might well engage in the show business, for the entertainment part of the program was unique and colorful. Congratulations are due Secretary Brown, Rodney Bacon, Bob Fernandez and B. H. Baker for presenting the fine singers, the Elks Double quartet, and the talented musicians, Ruth Armstrong, Phillip Hood and Edward Burns, who made a decided hit with the large crowd at the banquet.

Alyce Joy, the "Hobo Reporter," amused the business men and their wives with a colorful account of her adventurous journeys all over the United States, making her way on her gift of gab and her nerve to win a bet from Governor James Curley of Massachusetts.

The Business Men's Association is to be congratulated on having selected Fred Newcomb to serve as president of the association during the next year.

YOUTH AND GOVERNMENT

Santa Ana's city government will be in the hands of an entirely new set of officials next Friday. For this one day the reins of the municipality will be in complete charge of youthful members of the Santa Ana Chapter of De Molays.

This is an annual nation-wide practice of the order and, it is understood, these young men will not go about the business of running the city as if they were a lark, or just a lot of fun. On the other hand they will tackle their tasks as city officials with utmost sincerity—the idea in view being to give them a lesson in civic government, to acquaint them with the mechanics of municipal operation so that they may have a better understanding of their city and how it should be managed.

It should serve as a civic stimulant to any youthful mind, as sort of a preview to set him to thinking about the part he, as direct or indirect taxpayer and voter of the future, can play, if he only will, in making his community a better place in which to live.

Too many young Americans today are set down in a befuddled world, collectively unequipped in the methods of sound government, to right the economic and political wrongs of a cagey minority, slick enough to fool the most of us into climbing aboard the band-wagon of popular fancy, shutting from view any perils at the end of the road.

As a result we, as average citizens, although sincere enough—are lured, unsuspectingly, and with the wool pulled over our eyes, into divers governmental pitfalls.

Perhaps if this plan of the Santa Ana De Molays could be applied universally it would give our young folk an earlier chance to become interested in the manipulations of a government—not only municipal, but state and national—that so vitally concerns their future and the future of those to follow them.

So, when Mayor Darrell Gaebie, City Attorney Robert Fowler, Police Chief Maurice Lyan and their associates take over the city on Friday, may the lesson of sound civics be indelibly marked.

The De Molay gesture in Santa Ana toward better understanding of government is an excellent one.

Too bad more of our young people don't follow some similar plan.

SUDDEN RICHES

A 45-year-old W. P. A. worker in Los Angeles has just had nearly $2,000,000 dumped into his lap through inheritance of some Louisiana swampland which several days ago brought in oil gushers that are now spouting huge profits daily.

The W. P. A. man has been drawing $80 a month as a boondoggler. Now he is catapulted into the millionaire ranks. It all has him just a bit dazed.

He has been asked what he intends to do with his new-found riches. "We're going to have some fun," is his answer, indicating that he and his wife plan a hop to Honolulu and a visit to the hot spots of Europe.

No doubt he entertains the fondest of hopes as to what he will now be able to do. But, sudden riches, such as his, more often lead to a great amount of grief.

The fun may not be so hilarious as he hopes. Certainly, the money will be wasted if the recipient doesn't know how to put it into proper channels of service and production.

The new millionaire will find now that he is besieged on all sides by schemers and designers who will try to separate him from his pot of gold. His happiness is at stake. Unless he is an exceptionally "steady head," his new station in life will get him down. He will have to give a thought, now, to the possibility of kidnappers and gangsters. He has something they would like to grab. The tax grabbers, too, will camp on his trail.

He is no longer free. This man, who, in the snap of a finger, was turned from the depths to the heights, is not to be envied. From less than $100 a month to a "million in a flash" just doesn't seem to be the most desirable pitch of luck in the world—even though it appears as such at first perusal.

Far better, it would seem, is comfortable security in the service of your fellowmen, and the understanding that sudden great wealth should be less desired than the happiness that grows from health and from a life which is so lived that it bespeaks unselfish beneficence.

The new-born millionaire's first reaction is that he'll have a pile of fun with his money. Unless he watches his step with the greatest of caution, one has a hunch his troubles have only begun.

My friend is that one whom I can associate with my choicest thought.

REGISTER CLEARING HOUSE

(The articles under the Clearing House are published for the purpose of an exchange of ideas and are not necessarily the opinion of this newspaper. Contributors are urged to confine their articles to 300 words.)

Editor Register:—I should like to correct statements made by "Jack Foster" in the Clearing House that appeared recently in The Register, relating to "A Message to Garcia." In the Spanish-American service I knew about Rowan's carrying the message and his return. Later I became personally acquainted with Elbert Hubbard, and have heard him relate the circumstances which prompted the writing of "A Message to Garcia."

Mr. Foster is positive that Mr. Hubbard did not write the article because it was written by a predecessor in the Philippine office before Mr. Hubbard took over the editorship of the Philistine.

Let me quote from the Dictionary of American Biography, Vol. IX, page 323: "In 1895, stimulated by the example of William Morris, he (Elbert Hubbard) founded at East Aurora, the Roycroft Shop. In June of this year he published in form which was later to become very familiar, the first number of the Philistine—For a while he worked with the assistance of contributors, but with the forty-fifth issue, January, 1899, he announced that thereafter he himself would write everything in the periodical—His 'Message to Garcia' (March) 1899 was written in the mood of an impatient employer wearied at the inefficiency of his hirelings."

I have in my possession one of the first one hundred thousand copies published by George H. Daniels, general passenger agent New York Central railroad. Its caption is: "A Message to Garcia: Being a Preachment by Elbert Hubbard." On the back leaf of the copy the announcement is made: "Mr. Elbert Hubbard, author of A Message to Garcia, is the editor of the Philistine."

A booklet was published by Thomas Y. Crowell company in 1900, entitled: "A Message to Garcia and Other Essays by Elbert Hubbard." In its preface Mr. Hubbard has this to say: "The literary trifle, A Message to Garcia, was written one evening after supper, in a single hour. It was on the twenty-second of February, eighteen hundred ninety-nine, Washington's birthday, and we were just going to press with the March Philistine. The thing leaped hot from my heart, written after a trying day, when I had been endeavoring to train some rather delinquent villagers to abjure the comatose state and get radioactive."

"The immediate suggestion though, came from my little argument over the teacups, when my boy Bert suggested that Rowan was the real hero of the Cuban war. Rowan had gone alone and done the thing—carried the message to Garcia."

"It came to me like a flash! Yes, the boy is right, the hero is the man who does the work—who carries the message to Garcia."

"I got up from the table, and wrote A Message to Garcia."

Mr. Foster further states that it has never been proven that President McKinley sent a message to Garcia, and that there is no government record of such, and that it was only a figment of the imagination. I admit that the government records regarding the Spanish-American war are very incomplete. My personal research has affirmed the fact that reports sent in from the field were very deficient, and many of the records, unintelligible, especially those relating to our movements in the Philippines, because they have been destroyed by termites. However, in a biographical sketch of Lieutenant Rowan we find this record: "He was sent by the war department to communicate with General Garcia. He made a landing from an open boat near Turquino Peak, Cuba, on April 24, 1898, and with much difficulty succeeded in reaching Garcia, obtaining full information of the insurgent army, and made the return trip successfully, and was the first American officer to enter Cuba, after the declaration of war. He was promoted lieutenant-colonel, United States army for this service."

In 1923 Lieutenant Rowan wrote a book—he is the author of other books—entitled: "How I Carried A Message to Garcia." I do not have this book at hand so I cannot quote from it. Of course it may be found in the Congressional Library at Washington, D. C., and in many of our large libraries. I am quite sure there is a copy in the Los Angeles library. In this book he tells of his own experiences as to how he carried the message to Garcia. He was called by the war department to Washington. He consulted with the high officials there, including President McKinley. After he returned bearing the papers sent by Garcia he delivered them to the war department. For this act Rowan was recommended by President McKinley to a promotion of lieutenant-colonel in the United States army.

In view of the fact that more than forty million copies of "A Message to Garcia," translated into all languages, and distributed throughout the world, and in view of the high place Elbert Hubbard holds as a literary genius, I make this defense against any suggestion of plagiarism. Franklin K. Lane says of him: "He was a Twentieth-Century Franklin in his application of good sense to modern life." And Thomas A. Edison adds: "He was of big service to me in telling me the things I knew, but which I did not know I knew, until he told me."

F. L. CARRIER,
Santa Ana, Calif.

Editor Register: The true story of "The Message to Garcia," as told by Elbert Hubbard himself, is authentic, no matter what others may say. "This literary trifle, a message to Garcia" was written one evening after supper in a single hour. It was on the 22nd of February, 1899, Washington's birthday, and we were just going to press with the March Philistine. The thing leaped hot from my heart, written after a trying day, when I had been endeavoring to train some rather delinquent villagers to abjure the comatose state and get radioactive.

The immediate suggestion though, came from my little argument over the teacups, when my boy Bert suggested that Rowan was the real hero of the Cuban war. Rowan had gone alone and done the thing—carried the message to Garcia."

"I got up from the table and wrote A Message to Garcia." I thought so little of it that we ran it in the magazine without a heading. The edition went out and soon orders began to come in for extra copies of the March Philistine, a dozen, fifty, a hundred, and when the American News Co. ordered a thousand, I asked one of my helpers which article it was that stirred up the cosmic dust.

"It's the stuff about Garcia," he said. The next day a telegram came from Geo. H. Daniels of the N. Y. Central Ry., thus: "Give price on 100,000 Rowan article in pamphlet form, with Empire State ad on back, also how soon you can ship."

I replied, giving price and stating we could ship the books within two years. Our facilities were small and a hundred thousand booklets looked like an awful undertaking.

The result was that I gave Mr. Daniels permission to reprint the article in his own way. He issued it in book form in editions of half a million. Two or three of these half-million lots were sent out by Mr. Daniels and in addition the article was reprinted in over 200 magazines and newspapers and has been translated into all written languages.

At the time Mr. Daniels was distributing the message Prince Hliakoff, director of Russian railways, was in this country. He was the guest of the New York Central and made a tour under the personal direction of Mr. Daniels. The prince saw the little book and was interested in it, more, because Mr. Daniels was putting it out in such big quantities than otherwise.

In any event when he got home he had the matter translated into Russian and a copy given to every railroad employee in Russia. Other countries then took it up, and from Russia it passed into Germany, France, Spain, Turkey, Hindustan and China.

During the war between Russia and Japan, every Russian soldier who went to the front was given a copy.

The Japanese finding the booklets in possession of the Russian prisoners, concluded that it must be a good thing and had it translated into Japanese and on order of the Mikado a copy was given to every man in the employ of the government, soldier or civilian.

Over forty million copies of the message have been printed. East Aurora, N. Y., Dec. 1913.

Rowan made history for himself and for the United States, and Foster of Anaheim has a big job on his hands to contradict it.

Standing on the stone parapet of the Roosevelt dam in Arizona, Colonel Roosevelt this afternoon at 5 o'clock, threw a lever which lifted the thirty-ton gates of the dam, letting loose the stored waters to dash through valleys and canyons of the Salt river to Grand Reef weir, there to be diverted over untold thousands of acres of land in Salt River valley.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

THE VALUE OF SELF CONTROL

"What's the use of living if I can't have a good time? I can't sit back with my finger in my mouth if I am going to have any fun with the crowd. And if you can't go with them you might as well be dead." So speaks Marie, the prettiest and one of the brightest girls in town, in reply to a gentle hint that late hours, strong drinks, modern dances are not healthy for either the mind or body of young girls. Between going the limit and becoming a recluse Marie sees no choice.

Yet there is a choice. If humanity had not discovered the safe and sane, and on the whole delightful, middle-of-the-road, it could not have endured through the centuries to this present bewildering day. Life has not changed much fundamentally in spite of the noise and excitement about its changes. Manners and customs shift about, but the underlying laws stay as in the beginning. Sex, intoxicating drinks, blind daring, defying unshakable laws are as old as the race of Man. This generation of boys and girls has just discovered what countless generations knew, but wisely kept on the leash of self-control and convention. This mistaken rush to do and dare will subside but those who were overcome by it will suffer in their memories, in all their tenderest feelings for all time to come.

The girl who uses strong drink must learn sooner or later that she pays for it by a lessened power over her mind and body. She, in the old words, is not herself. Her lower self is in control, going headlong into trouble. In the ignorance of youth some girls and boys think this heady feeling is the good time they are seeking. Later on they know it for what it is, the danger signal, the call of ignorance, crude uncontrolled ignorance, that ought to be feared.

Everything we do toward making ourselves happy is a matter of choice, and we pay for that choice. Self-denial is painful, but the price is paid at once and soon forgotten in the peace that follows. Self-indulgence is pleasant and easy, at the time, but the price is high and hard and slow in its effect, lingering and exacting. Its bitter completeness takes years of joy from its victims out of all proportion to the pleasure of the soon-forgotten moment.

These conditions press hardest on girls. It is very well to talk about the single standard, but it is not in force. The girl who drinks and smokes and pets to excess pays for it all her days. While the boy soon shrugs off any harsh criticism and outlives his wild out days, it is rarely possible for a girl to do so. Once the word goes out about that she is no better than she should be, nothing much can be done to help her deny the scandal. Caesar's wife still must be royally aloof.

What is the girl to do when her set chooses to ignore old ways and old conventions? Change the set, say she will not lend herself to its ways. Say it cheerfully, pleasantly, and stick to it. She will not die a lone death in the desert in consequence. There are still the majority of fine healthy young people who balance today's indulgence against the future's happiness and success. Temperance is still better than excess. Life is still good and nature still condemns error!

Day By Day In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1935)

WASHINGTON, March 18.—The biggest and most important piece of news out of Washington these days is the revelation that the Roosevelt administration really cannot balance the budget.

For nearly two weeks the ways and means committee has been struggling with the tax plan offered by President Roosevelt in order to raise about $620,000,000 a year. But it develops now that no such amount can be raised by the proposed tax on undivided surpluses earned by corporations in the future. As for raising the $3,000,000,000 a year needed to balance the budget, the method and manner of achieving that objective is still undiscovered.

This being a political year, congress is reluctant to broaden the tax base or adopt a sales tax or any of the other revenue devices that will bring down on senators and representatives the political wrath of the consuming public. Between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 persons handed in income tax returns this week and the remainder of the gainfully employed persons, estimated to be about 40,000,000 or thereabouts, probably believed that the federal tax problem was not in any way bearing down on them.

Yet the day is not far distant when the weight of federal taxes will have to be felt by all classes of people if the government is to stop the borrowing process that is running up the national debt so rapidly. The administration hopes to avoid this step till after the November elections in the hope that no political repercussions will arise in the coming campaign. That the taxes all persons indirectly may pay or thereabouts directly and the taxation of all persons indirectly may be looked for in the next three years no longer can be doubted. In truth, the end of the soak-the-rich program is in sight. The point has been reached where the administration has the alternative of killing the goose that lays the golden egg—that is, stifling industry and forcing more unemployment and an increase of relief expenses—or soaking the poor as well as the rich with new taxes—or cutting expenses drastically.

The spectacle of a congress trying to find a way to raise $620,000,000 when the sums actually to be raised to achieve a balanced budget are about five times that amount is not a happy one. Friends of the administration conceal it or can't see it while critics are regarded as public enemies if they ever hint at the forthcoming dangers to national credit in the event that some comprehensive and productive tax raising scheme is not soon adopted.

It's an ill wind that blows no good, however, for if the tax money cannot be raised without impairing business and industry and thus increasing unemployment, then the national demand for economizing on federal expenses will soon rise up and cause many a member of congress to lose his seat.

The problem is a serious one, no matter who is elected president. Now that the debt has been incurred, the question of how to pay it back should be non-political. Yet the question of whether all the federal expenses are actually necessary is bound to become political.

What has been borrowed to date, $31,500,000,000, is not excessive in itself. America can stand such a public debt. It is not the size of the public debt, on the other hand, but the rate at which it is piled up that gives cause for concern to economists and fiscal experts of that school of thought which believes that money borrowed from the people ought not to be repudiated by inflation or by any other means but should really be paid back to the lenders.

As matters stand today, the citizen cannot reach the spenders. Budget responsibility is not assumed by either the Republicans or the Democrats in congress. Court action against waste of public funds is virtually impossible because decisions thus far have prevented an aggrieved citizen from getting a case before the judicial branch of the government.

Little Renny's
Note Book

By LEE PAPE

We was eating breakfast and ma said to pop, Don't forget we're going to hear Sacha Glikle tonight, Willyum. Just imagine, barely 12 years old and already such a marvellous violinist he has fame and fortune at his beck and call and crown heads at his feet. Naturally we awt to dress, Willyum, she said.

What, me get all layed out in a boiled shirt and trimmings for a 12 year old kid, nothing doing, pop said, and ma said, But Willyum, he's going to play Haydn and Beas as they've properly never been played before, could anything be more inspiring than that to dress for?

But yee gods, you don't take music through your clothes, you take it through your ears, pop said. I wouldn't mind giving my ears an exter washing in honor of the occasion. But thumbs down on the dressing. When I climb into that suit of armor it's got to be for some befitting event, he said, and ma said, Such as what for an example just for instants?

Well, if the evening started with something real solemn such as a noble and edifying repast of liver and onions, it would be a different story, or rather it would be an epic or long prose poem, pop said, and ma said, We had liver and onions 3 days ago, which is practically yesterday as far as I'm concerned, so it's not only ridiculous but out of all human question to have it again today.

I never even suggested having it, pop said. You asked me what I considered a befitting occasion for evening clothes and I calmly and dispassionately told you, that's all, he said, and ma said, Willyum Potts, this is blackmail.

Not at all, it's a beautiful example of the survival of the fittest. I mean I just feel I can't live another day without liver and onions, though of course I may be wrong, pop said, and ma said, O all right, I'll call up the butcher and fix the buttonhole in your good dress shirt, such a man.

Meaning pop.

Business Association Holds Annual Banquet Here

BUSINESS GAIN REPORTED; GAY PROGRAM HELD

More than 150 members of the Business Men's association of Santa Ana and their wives last night enjoyed a colorful and unique program at the annual membership banquet in the Green Cat cafe, with the business part of the meeting devoted to a report by Secretary Phil M. Brown which showed a 35 per cent increase in credit reports by the association last year over the previous year.

Secretary-Manager Brown reported that the association is free from debt, and last year enjoyed the most successful year in its history. During the year fireproof equipment for storing valuable records was installed. The association has 12 employees who made 18,302 credit reports during the year.

A marked improvement in business conditions was reported by Brown. The association has more than 100,000 individual records on credit, and is the only association in the state which has a complete record of all real estate ownership in the county. The report showed that the outstanding service of the association has been recognized and complimented by leading manufacturing concerns.

The association was instrumental in preventing 50 unethical trade schemes from operating in Santa Ana during the year, the report showed.

Musical Program
Dinner music was furnished by an instrumental trio, comprised of Ruth Armstrong, Phillip Hood and Edward Burns. The popular Elks Double quartet greeted the business men and their wives in song, and then presented a varied program of popular, semi-classical and spiritual numbers. Both musical groups won hearty applause from the listeners.

The surprise event of the evening was the appearance of Alyce Joy, famed "hobo reporter" who traveled 76,414 miles on her nerve and "gift of gab" to win a bet from Governor James Curley of Massachusetts.

She told many colorful and amusing stories of how she was towed 54,000 miles on her trip, which started in Boston on October 4, 1933 and which eventually landed her in Hollywood on October 4, 1935. She told how she and her girl companion "chased rooms in hotels, gasoline, towns for her car, food and money in many unique manners to make the extended journey.

Fred Newcomb, newly elected president of the association, presided at the meeting. Jerry Hall introduced the musicians.

PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN IS OPENED BY DEMOCRATS HERE; BITTER CAMPAIGN FORESEEN

Orange county Democrats officially opened the 1936 presidential campaign last night with a $5 a plate dinner at Armstrong's cafe on 101 highway. Pledging their loyalty to President Roosevelt they prepared to combat what Elmer S. Nelson, the principal speaker predicted would be the "bitterest, most malicious, vicious and nastiest attempt to discredit a president of the United States, that has ever been made in California."

There were more than 200 Democrats present, proceeds of the dinner going to swell the party war chest for the campaign in this country. Martel Thompson president, as chairman in the absence of Stanley Clem, president of the Young Democrats of Orange County, the organization sponsoring the dinner. Clem is seriously ill in the hospital. Robert Ramsey was toastmaster, introducing leading Democrats and the speaker.

County Democrats who spoke briefly were Judge H. G. Ames, H. C. Head and Supervisor N. E. West. Nelson, the principal speaker, who at one time was assistant in economics to Dr. Irving Fisher, and economics advisor to the Wilson administration spoke on "Why This State and the Nation Will Remain Under the Democratic System of Government."

Warning Given
He warned his listeners that the greatest single difficulty ever faced by California Democrats is the lack of organization in this state. He declared that a Republican governor never would have been elected in 1934 had it not been for this lack of organization and warned them that the defeat would be repeated nationally unless Democrats all over the nation were prepared for a bitter battle against entrenched wealth that would be expended to defeat Roosevelt.

Nelson said that warnings and predictions that the nation was on the verge of its greatest economic depression were made during the administration of President Warren Harding. It was because of these warnings, he said, that Harding's successor, Calvin Coolidge did not "choose to run" for re-election. Roosevelt, Nelson said, had spent the years he was re-organizing from infantile paralysis studying national economic and government problems and determined to do something about it when he became president.

When he took office Roosevelt was faced with the necessity of deciding whether the nation should operate under Democratic system under the constitution or a system under a Constitution shackled by wealth. In 1929, he said, the nation was worth more than $380,000,000,000. The total debt was $190,000,000,000 and, in that year, the national income of all its people was $33,000,000,000.

Figures Given
In 1932, when Roosevelt took office the national wealth had shrunk to $200,000,000,000, the debt increased to $220,000,000,000. "In other words," the speaker said, "Roosevelt took over a nation bankrupt to the amount of $20,000,000,000 after 12 years of the most despicable administration of any country on the face of the earth."

Nelson said that in August, September and October of 1932 the American system of government was actually tottering toward de-

JUDGE POPPY POSTERS HERE ON THURSDAY

Judging of posters entered by students in the junior high schools, senior high school and junior college in the American Legion auxiliary Poppy day poster contest will take place tomorrow night at 7:15 o'clock in the Legion hall, it was announced today by Mrs. R. H. McCalla, chairman of the auxiliary poppy day committee.

There will be around 75 posters to be judged, Mrs. McCalla said, and cash prizes will be given first and second winners in each of the three school classes. Winners of the contest, in addition to the local prizes, will have their posters entered in the district and state poster contests. The district contest will be held in Pomona during April, and the state contest will be conducted later.

Judges for the poster contest here tomorrow night will be Norton and Jerome Gaston, commercial artists at the Broadway theater, and Mrs. Evadna Perry, county schools art supervisor. The posters entered in the local contest will be used for advance publicity on the annual poppy day event, to be conducted here the latter part of May. Mrs. McCalla said that 4500 poppies will be ordered for the sale this year.

MWD DIRECTOR SAYS USELESS TO RELY ON LOCAL RAINS TO SOLVE LOCAL WATER PROBLEM

Pointing out that even in the earliest periods of development of this section the spread and density of population has depended upon the availability and quantity of water and declaring that it is useless to depend on local annual rainfall for maintenance of agricultural crops, Col. S. H. Finley today sent The Register the second of a series of articles he is writing on the water situation in Orange county. Colonel Finley, Santa Ana's representative on the Metropolitan Water District board of directors, made the following statements:

"A reasonably accurate rainfall record for periods varying from 25 to 41 years for Southern California, obtained by private and official gauges, is available only for 75 years in the immediate past. Prior to that time and extending for centuries before the appearance of civilized man in this area, use has been made of the study of dead and living rivers which tell a marvelous story of alternate flashes of floods and long drought periods.

"Supplementing this dependable nature record we have in more recent years the crop records kept by the mission fathers who made frequent references to the amount of seed sown and the yield from it, which would indicate the comparative rainfall, although they used no rain gauges.

"Information drawn from all sources justifies the conclusion that there have been many periods of more severe and extended drought in the past, than any experienced within the memory of the present generation. Some have continued for periods varying from 25 to 41 years.

Cattle, Sheep, Digs
In 1791 no measurable amount of rain fell and records show that 1823 Able Stearns lost by starvation 30,000 head of cattle on ranches in and adjacent to this county. During the drought period of 1874-77 lack of pasture food caused the death of 22,000 sheep on the present site of Inglewood. During some of these years less than four inches of rain fell in the city of Los Angeles.

"Records show that Lake Elsinore was practically dry in 1810, overflooded in 1841 and was dry again in 1859. Since it would have required 11 years for the lake to become dry by evaporation if no rainfall at all entered it, it can readily be seen that a long drought period preceded both 1810 and 1859. In 1833 the lake held only 12 per cent of its capacity of water.

"The above data is gleaned from researches made by Prof. Franklin Thomas of Caltech and H. B. Lynch, an engineer who has spent years of study of rainfall records in California, extending back to 1769. I mention them at this time to show what the conditions were prior to the period of artificial application of water from streams and underground reservoirs.

Rainfall Undependable
"This indisputable evidence shows how useless it is to depend on local annual rainfall for maintenance of our trees and many forms of annual crops. It also shows uselessness of trying to store sufficient water in flood years to maintain our developments over these long periods of below normal rainfall, for the simple reason that there is not enough rainfall in this area to carry us through even a short period of drought, without resorting to underground stored water which is rapidly disappearing.

"The sight of numerous empty reservoirs in Southern California more suitable for golf courses than storage reservoirs, is further evidence of this condition.

"When water was first made use of in this county, by artificial means for producing food for human beings, it was a semi-arid desert, and probably never did not was it capable of sustaining a population exceeding 2500. Within the memory of some of us still living it did not contain a population exceeding 5000.

Indian Occupation
"Research and excavations disclose evidence of very early Indian occupation only at places along perennial streams such as the San Juan, Trabuco, Santiago and Santa Ana at points above where they discharge into the open plains, or at natural living springs near the coast such as the base of the Huntington Beach mesa.

"After Spanish occupation in the days of the Douglas pump windmill and the 'Old Oaken Bucket' or its equivalent, the population spread to points a little more distant from flowing streams, with primitive diversions of water from streams to nearby pastures and low lying land used for producing food for human consumption.

"It was during this period that Spain, in order to encourage settlement of the territory, granted to her numerous citizens large tracts of land varying from 10,000 to 50,000 acres in extent, this being the minimum holding upon which families could live in comfort.

"Thus it will be seen, how, even in the very earliest periods of development of this country, the spread and density of population has depended on the availability and quantity of water. The period of modern growth after American occupation will be discussed in the next article."

FARM CENTER GETS DATA ON CITRUS JUICE

ORANGE, March 18.—Facts on the orange juice situation were presented by H. C. Stephens, manager of the Santa Barbara Juice company, at the meeting of the West Orange Farm center last night.

Stephens declared that fresh fruit can be packed and sold at advantageous prices at the height of the season and that orange juice can be canned the year around. He said that freight costs on orange juice was about 17 cents a case and that juice may be shipped without refrigeration costs. Quality of the juice is the paramount issue, he emphasized.

Canned juice will find a ready sale if the juice has the proper taste but one spoiled orange can contaminate a large amount of juice, Stephens warned. Growers may help in this if they see that oranges are graded before they are brought to juice plants, as the plants have no facilities for grading them, he said.

Growers have no need to worry about canned orange juice being held over from one season to the next to compete with fresh fruit, the plant manager declared, as juice is finding a ready sale, the Santa Barbara company having filled 13 repeat orders in one orange store the past year. The convenience of juice is adding to its popularity and it may be sold anywhere at any time without danger of spoiling, he declared. The entire pack of the Santa Barbara concern was sold by January 1, he stated.

The meeting followed a covered dish dinner and W. F. Feldner presided at the business session. Pictures of the state convention at Santa Cruz were shown by C. J. Marks, field secretary of the Orange County Farm bureau.

J. A. Porter, chairman of the standardization sub-committee of the citrus department, spoke on proposed laws in the state regarding the sugar content of oranges. In the northern part of the state, he said, oranges may be sold when the sugar content is six to one while in the southern part of the state the sugar content must be eight to one. He said steps were being taken to secure uniform regulations. Porter was introduced by George Juenke. Joe Witt gave a report for the walnut committee.

Fred Albers gave the directors' report and Mrs. J. F. Mueller the report of the home department, the next meeting of which will be held in the home of Mrs. R. D. Flaherty, on South Broadway, Santa Ana.
